Rupert Council Meets Tonight on Riot Action

PRINCE RUPERT (BUP)—A special meeting of city council was called for tonight to discuss Sunday morning's riot in which police dispersed a mob of over 400 persons with tear gas.

Four whites and two natives were charged with unlawful assembly when they appeared in police court Monday, and a warrant was issued for a seventh person.

The six who appeared Monday were remanded for preliminary hearing and released on bail. One was a juvenile, who took part in the riot in which the RCMP were charged as "Gestapo."

Another 17 persons were arrested early Sunday on intoxication charges and fined $25 Monday.

A Vancouver newspaper published letters from several residents claiming the RCMP used "Gestapo" tactics to enforce law and order here.

Robert S. Day of Prince Rupert wrote: "Sober citizens who objected to RCMP manhandling were slapped, pushed and thrown into jail."

"While watching this, I found it hard to believe I was not in Russia or wartime Germany. Canada is a free country, but it seems Prince Rupert is to be subjected to Gestapo law."

Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac said here today that he had no personal knowledge of any Gestapo tactics being employed by the RCMP. He will fly to Prince Rupert Wednesday.

VIRGIN MARY'S SASH SAID UNEARTHED IN SYRIAN CHURCH

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Discovery in Syria of a sash believed to have been worn by the Virgin Mary was announced Monday night by Archbishop Mar Athanasius Yeshue Samuel of the Assyrian Apostolic Orthodox Church.

He said he learned of the discovery in a letter from Mar Ignatius Ephrem I. Syrian patriarch of Antioch and all the East.

The letter said the sash was located in a fragile glass case beneath the altar of the centuries-old Church of Our Lady of the Girdle of the Virgin Mary, in Homs, Syria.

The glass casing disintegrated at touch, the letter said. The letter said also that church leaders in April uncovered a document written in the Aramaic language in use at the time of Christ. It said the sash was buried beneath the church altar.

An ancient legend said the sash was in the church, but specified no resting place. The church was built in 59 A.D. and altered several times, but the altar has remained in place 1,894 years.

Archbishop Samuel is visiting friends in Worcester.

TEHRAN (AP)—An estimated 265 persons were drowned last week in a series of floods that swept away a village in rugged mountain areas of northern Iran, it was reported here today.

She praised the new universal old-age pension plan, noting that in May of this year 690,000 Canadian men and women were receiving this old-age security to the extent of $330,000,000 a year.

Mrs. Hodges stressed that Canada did more for widows of Canadian servicemen than any other country. She drew a comparison between Canadian pensions and those paid in the U.S.

A widow of a Canadian serviceman, left with three children to support, receives $2,328 annually, she noted, while in the U.S. only $1,860.

"That's a thing very few people understand," she lamented.

PICCONI WOOS LEFTISTS IN CABINET BID

ROME (UP)—Premier-designate Attilio Piccioni wooed the moderate right and spurned the extreme right as he attempted to form a new Italian government today, following last week's fall of the government headed by de Gasperi.

Piccioni in his second day of consultations continued to ignore the monarchists, and concentrated on the right-wing Socialists, Liberals and Republicans.

Queen Congratulates Commonwealth Forces

IN KOREA (AP)—The 1st Commonwealth division today received a message of "deep appreciation" from the Queen for service during the Korean war.

The message to the division's commander, Maj.-Gen. M. A. R. West, read:

"Please express to all ranks of the Commonwealth division my deep appreciation of the splendid service they have given throughout the fighting in Korea."

Mormon Head Promises Polygamy Report

CRESTON, B.C. (BUP)—The head of the Mormon Church in Western Canada said today his investigation of reports of plural marriages among church members here was nearly completed.

R. Scott Zimmerman, of Edmonton, Alta., said a "special announcement will be made after the judgment has been made."

He said a special RCMP inquiry into rumored polygamy did not turn up any "substantial" evidence, but he declined to elaborate.

The twin investigations were touched off following the arrest of renegade Mormons at Short Creek, Ariz., who admitted practicing polygamy and indicated the practice was flourishing at the Mormon colony here.

"Although the most personal part of the investigation was completed by the church court, some inquiries are still being made," Zimmerman added.

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Lloyd Stripe had a jubilant reunion with his brother whom he had not seen for eight years, but the circumstances somewhat dampened the occasion.

Stripe was hauled into jail in a drunk charge and discovered that the man in the next bunk, also in on a drunk charge, was his long lost brother, Al.

For a Greater Canada—VOTE LIBERAL!

NATIONAL LIBERAL FEDERATION OF CANADA

"I'd like to say this to all Canadians..."

UNDER a Liberal government, Canadians have added every year to the national strength and national unity of Canada;

We have had the greatest expansion of social welfare in our history;

We have increased our employment, our production and our national income every year;

We have had the greatest expansion of our primary and secondary industries—truly an industrial revolution;

Because of the outstanding contribution of the members of our Navy, Army and Air Force, we have been able to do our full share to prevent and to stop Communist aggression;

We have reduced the national debt every year, and, in the last two years, repaid the reward in lower tax rates.

Do we want all that to be continued?

Do you really think it's time for a change?

For a change to a Parliament of regional groups—a handful of Social Crediters from the Far West, a few Socialists from the Prairies, a few more Conservatives from Ontario or the Maritimes and some so-called Independents from Quebec?

In such a Parliament without the leadership and responsibility of a united national party, how could the government help being weak and insecure?

Do we want a weak and divided government to deal with the formidable problems of the next few years? I ask you, is it really time for a change?

We believe most Canadians want a government which encourages enterprise, promotes trade and fosters the exploration and development of our resources; and you know it as well as we do, that requires balanced budgets, paying off debts in prosperous times and a tax structure which, while fair to all, is adequate to meet these demands.

For a Greater Canada—VOTE LIBERAL!

MONTREAL FIRES LEAVE 110 PEOPLE HOMELESS

MONTREAL (BUP)—The homeless numbered 110 today in the wake of two flash fires that swept 22 flats and four houses within six hours.

No one was reported hurt. Sixty persons fled to the streets at 5 p.m. Monday when the first fire leveled two apartment houses and two summer cottages in suburban Pointe-aux-Lièvres.

Fifty persons were driven from six flats in the city's East End shortly before midnight when fire spread from a shed to a three-story building.

Causes of both fires were unknown but police said there was no suspicion of arson.

FEDERAL ELECTION

PM Cleans Up Desk Work, Others Busy

By The Canadian Press
Prime Minister St. Laurent forgoes the election campaign today to pitch into a stack of government business in the capital, giving George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, a chance to make up that lost day.

That was the day Mr. Drew was fogbound at Sydney, N.S., and had to pass up his projected Newfoundland visit. He lost a full day's campaigning.

Mr. Drew launches a second invasion of Quebec province today with speeches at Montreal, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell wings up his week-long British Columbia tour with a meeting at Vancouver.

Mr. Drew spent Monday campaigning in his home riding of Carleton, mostly rural but which also takes in a slice of Ottawa. He promised that a Progressive Conservative government would undertake greater development of Canada's natural resources. More Canadian raw materials would be processed in this country rather than shipped to foreign countries, especially the United States.

"One of the decisions to be made August 10 (election day) is whether you want a national policy to develop our resources, or to have them exported to the United States to build up that country."

NEED NATIONAL POLICY

Canada's unique combination of natural resources and power to develop them called for a national policy, declaring these resources "will be used in the first place for the advantage of Canadians themselves and for the employment of young Canadians."

"If we process them here in cases where it is economically sound, Canada in 50 years will have a population of from 60,000,000 to 70,000,000," Mr. Drew predicted.

Mr. St. Laurent polished off a two-day tour of Quebec's eastern townships with a rally Monday night at St. John's. He returned to Ottawa today for a final cabinet meeting before Monday's voting and resume his electioneering at the capital Wednesday night.

The prime minister, replying to Progressive Conservative arguments that Canada's personal income taxes are too high, said tax rates are lower in this country than in the U.S. or Britain.

A single person earning $2,000 a year was taxed $269 in the U.S. and $332 in Britain. The Canadian tax was $180. A single person earning $4,000 annually paid a tax of $696 in the U.S., $1,032 in Britain and $505 in Canada.

The rate for married persons with two children was slightly higher in Canada than in the U.S. Mr. St. Laurent said, but when family allowances were considered, the Canadian rate was the lowest of the three nations.

"For example, a married man with two children, earning $4,000 a year, paid $320 in Canada, $271 in the U.S., and $704 in Britain. But in Canada the average family with two children received between $150 and $170 a year in family allowance payments."

Mental Stress Harms Stepienac Say Doctors

NEW YORK (UP)—Two American doctors believe Aloysius Cardinal Stepienac of Yugoslavia is under "mental stress and strain" that interferes with treatment for his serious blood ailment.

Drs. John H. Lawrence of Berkeley, Calif., and John F. Ruzic of Chicago, who examined Stepienac recently in Yugoslavia, said Monday the "regime of restraint" imposed on the cardinal threatens to harm the effectiveness of his treatment.

The doctors issued their statement after returning from a trip to Yugoslavia arranged by Roman Catholic leaders in the United States.

Hungary May Free Briton Jailed as Spy in 1950

Knowland Seen As Republican Floor Leader

WASHINGTON (UP)—Supporters of Sen. William F. Knowland predicted he would ride out a last-minute flurry of opposition today and win the overwhelming election as senate Republican floor leader.

The 46 Republican senators were called to a party caucus to fill the leadership vacancy created by the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft. Knowland has held the post on an active basis since Taft became ill nearly two months ago.

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Leaders in the Republican-controlled legislature have been considering changing the election law to have a special election in November to choose a successor to Taft. Presumably, the election winner would take the place of any senator appointed in the meantime by Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The legislature is expected to consider the proposal when it meets Friday.

Wealth Redistribution Part of CCF Program

Coldwell Would Achieve Object By Improved Social Security Plan

A federal CCF government will improve on the present "piece-meal and inadequate social security program by implementing a comprehensive and well-integrated system of social security measures," CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said at the Club Sirocco Monday night.

"Old age and blind pensions and family allowances will be increased to bring them in line with the cost of living. The present means test will be abolished, making the old-age pension payable to all at 65. "Sickness benefits will be provided to help support the worker and his family when the former becomes unemployed on account of illness.

"A national health program will give complete medical and hospital care to all irrespective of ability to pay. Pensions will be provided for the incapacitated and disabled.

"The social security program proposed by the CCF will be financed by the federal government out of general revenue. If necessary, this will be supplemented by a social security contribution based on ability to pay," he said.

PROMISE RECALLED

The Liberals, Mr. Coldwell continued, promised a national health program as far back as 1919.

When Health Minister Paul Martin was reminded of this, Mr. Coldwell said he (Martin) replied:

"You shouldn't be impatient. These things can't be done overnight."

He rapped Mr. Low and Victoria Social candidate Ald. Waldo Skillings for claiming Canadians got family allowances because of Social Credit.

He said J. S. Woodsworth was pressing the government to institute family allowances in 1929, six years before William Aberhart came to power in Alberta.

Even Canada's inadequate social security program of today wouldn't have been instituted if it hadn't been for the constant pressure brought to bear in the House of Commons by the CCF, the leader stated.

He ridiculed the Liberal claim that Canada can't afford to expand social security.

"If we can raise money for destruction (defense expenditures), surely we can raise money for alleviation of human suffering," said Mr. Coldwell.

"Payments under a social security program merely involve the taxing of those who can afford it in order to give to those who need it. In other words, the sharing of one another's burdens," he said.

Taft Buried In Native Ohio Soil

CINCINNATI, O. (UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft went to his final rest today in the soil of his native Ohio.

Private funeral services and a public memorial service were held simultaneously at 11 a.m. for the famous Ohioan who received the nation's highest tribute Monday at the capitol in Washington.

A private service was arranged at the small Indian Hill church near the Taft home for members of his family and close friends. Burial followed in the nearby Indian Hill churchyard.

In downtown Cincinnati, a public service was held in the larger Christ Church, with a seating capacity of more than 1,000. The Indian Hill church, where Taft and his family worshipped, seats 260.

Police estimated 15,000 persons filed past the bronze casket containing the body of the senator during five hours it was on view Monday night at a downtown funeral home. Mourners moved past the flower-covered bier at the rate of 50 a minute.

The Little Man's Savings

AFTER A NOTABLY APATHETIC political campaign many Canadians may say they are uninterested in the election of August 10. But every Canadian, even if he has never joined a political party, attended a political meeting or studied a political problem, will find his own life intimately affected by the decisions of next week's poll. And if he has any savings in cash, bonds, life insurance, annuities or other investments, they cannot escape, for better or worse, the policies of the next Parliament.

The man who has saved his money, all the families living on fixed investments or pensions of any sort, have suffered gravely from the inflation of the last ten years. That is the price of war and it has always been paid in every great war of the past. In Canada the price has been far less than in most countries because our affairs have been managed better and our natural wealth is greater.

But if Canada is now to embark on policies of inflation the man with savings of any sort will find them shrinking again. His life insurance policy, for example, will still be paid a hundred cents on the dollar, but what will the dollar be worth? His pension will continue to be paid also but how many goods will it buy?

That is the question which the Canadian family must ask itself in considering the policies of the Social Credit party and the election of its candidates.

Leaving aside for the moment all other aspects of the Social Credit theory, Mr. Solon Low promises to pay "national dividends" to all Canadians at the rate of "at least $25 a month" and, as he says, "probably more." This would cost the national treasury over $4 billions a year. It would double the present budget, without considering all the Social Credit party's promises of other new expenditures.

The necessary money would not be secured by taxes in sound money, for Mr. Low promises a drastic tax reduction. It would be created out of thin air at the Bank of Canada. It would be inflationary and phony money, backed by no new production of goods.

Such an amount poured into the money supply would wreck the Canadian dollar. A few years of this sort of thing and the dollar would be practically worthless. All savings would be effectively destroyed.

If anyone doubts that let him observe that prices doubled and the dollar lost half its value in the last ten years with monetary inflation at a fraction of the rate now proposed by the Social Credit party. Monetary inflation ended with the war, though its results in prices took some years to reveal themselves fully. Social Credit proposes to renew it on a gigantic scale.

So long as it proposes social dividends of $25 a month and probably more (as Mr. Low promises) then it is nonsense for the Social Credit candidates to say that they will prevent inflation. That is the core of their whole policy as laid down by their leader. There is no policy without it.

And as they continue to denounce debt and promise to liquidate it, they forget that the debts of the nation are owed to millions of Canadians who have invested in bonds, annuities, life insurance or other savings, which could not long survive Social Credit policies.

There is no use Social Credit candidates saying that they can be safely elected because, as individuals, they don't believe in phony money. They are part of a movement which believes in phony money and, if elected, would proceed to use it, precisely as Mr. Low says.

It is difficult to understand how any person can vote for a Social Credit candidate if he or she has saved a dollar in cash, bought a bond, taken out an insurance policy, made any fixed investment or is living on any sort of pension. For all of them inflation on the scale proposed by Social Credit would be ruinous.

A Date With Destiny

THE 90-DAY CONFERENCE period into which we now have moved in Korea gives an opportunity for review of the unprecedented action that brought on the Korean war.

What primarily brought it on, of course, was the invasion of South Korea by the Communist North Korean army. But there would even then have been no war if the United Nations had not intervened. There would instead have been a quick over-running of the unprepared South and, by now, a wholly communist peninsula opposite Japan.

Has preservation of the pre-June, 1950, status quo been justified? What have we bought with the millions of dollars, the thousands of lives expended?

For a possible answer we may go back to what happened when on an earlier occasion another world body failed in its responsibilities. The Japanese invasion of Manchuria in 1931 was certainly a cue for League of Nations action, but it—or rather the world opinion which was its only real strength—was not ready for the task. The Manchurian invasion progressed until it became a part of the Second World War.

In 1935 the League condemned Mussolini's attack on Ethiopia. It even went so far as to impose sanctions on the aggressor country. But it did not go far enough to cut off the essential oil supplies that enabled Italy to carry on its war, nor did it close the Suez Canal to movement of invading troops. In the face of such an obvious lack of unity and resolution Fascism flourished.

Would there have been a "Munich" if Hitler had had before him the precedents of effective world-wide opposition to aggression? Would he have launched his invasions if he had known that the result would be instant and united retaliation? The Kaiser had spurned a "nation of shop-keepers," but could Hitler have risked ignoring a world of soldiers?

Korea has been costly. But who can assess what it has saved in combatting full-scale communist attacks on Indo-China and Malaya, where instead aggression has been confined merely to support of rebels? Or what of the possibilities in Burma, India, even Turkey, all of which have felt threats? We could conceivably be fighting for our survival in a World War III at this moment if aggression in Korea had proved to be a paying proposition.

June 26, 1950, when the United Nations took its stand, marked the beginning of a new era, a new concept in global affairs. As full recognition of this is brought home, it may well become a date for annual celebration by the peoples of the free world.

Harmony on the Industrial Front

CERTAIN MARGINAL OPERATORS in British Columbia's coast timber industry have yet to reach agreement with the IWA on wage scales, but major concerns have approved terms of a conciliation board report acceptable to the union. No big strike is in prospect.

The outcome of recent negotiations marks once again the successful conclusion of discussions between the two factions in production and the industry has not been disrupted, as it was with disastrous results last year.

The conclusion of labor-management talks in the timber industry follows a general pattern discernible this year.

Work stoppages have been avoided in transportation, construction trades, fishing and now among the woodworkers. A degree of harmony has been produced in sharp contrast to the discord which impaired British Columbia's economy in 1952.

This happy situation does not, in itself, indicate a permanent advance from industrial friction. There have been other relatively peaceful years following times of strife. Yet there is a hopeful element in the 1953 picture which may indicate a general improvement in B.C. labor relations henceforth.

In each of the industries and trades mentioned, working men and employers have fresh memories of the injury each sustained—and which the public in general suffered indirectly—from the strikes of last year.

There appears, moreover, to be an awareness on labor's part that exceptionally high wage demands might force plants to close down.

The case of the marginal operators in the timber industry, and the apparent willingness of the IWA to at least reconsider the pay issue as it effects them, illustrate the point.

It is noteworthy in each of the settlements so far made that labor has lowered its original requests and managements have revised upward the scales they had previously set as maximums.

The importance of keeping prices at a level where they can compete successfully in open markets is obviously engaging the thoughtful study of responsible union leaders.

Their memberships have a direct interest in stable employment and they are not unmindful of the fact that the wage factor is important in maintaining stability.

Breakdown on the Line

MAN, especially modern man, is a creature of habit and limps through life on all sorts of invisible crutches of which he is hardly aware. I am compelled to record this profound thought, this ultimate piece of blatitude, by two dismal accidents. My typewriter has broken down and the train didn't run last night. Either event would be serious. In combination they are utterly shattering.

After 35 years of labor I am so dependent on a typewriter that my writing by pen has become not only illegible but intolerable. As one who hates all forms of machinery I am little more than a clumsy extension of a machine, a minor cog, which revolves (as any reader of these words will agree) without thought, direction or purpose. When the machine is broken the minor cog just stops.

SOME men can think only with a pen in their hands, preferably, among politicians of the newer economic schools, a fountain pen creating new money in the Bank of Canada. With those addicted to the typewriter, the slaves of the machine, a pen may be loaded with ink but all thought dries up. And so, despite a heavy mountain shower in this wilderness, I am suffering from a searing drought.

But the breakdown on the railway is still more catastrophic. Now this particular railway never carries any goods or mail for me. I have no idea what it carries in its freight cars. If it carries anything, for I have never seen it. That doesn't matter. It carries an intangible freight without which the inhabitants of these parts cannot survive. They will starve for lack of companionship.

EVERY night, promptly at 11 o'clock, a faint sound, a mere whisper, rises in the jungle to the northward. All the natives hereabout, lying sleepless in their beds after a day of labor, hear that sound and know that the scheme of things is still intact. The old train is wallowing down the line.

In the silence of the night the engine's breathing grows louder like an old man with asthma, its heart beat quickens, it grips the rails and summons all its energies for the big hill ahead. And all of us lie anxious in our beds, wondering whether it will make the grade.

Former Lord of Creation

By A. G. LAWRENCE in The Winnipeg Free Press

THE chief local hunting ground of amateur geologists is in the beautiful mottled limestone of the Tyndall quarries, formed by the labor of countless billions of tiny sea animals—corals, shellfish, crustaceans—over a period of some 10 to 20 million years, long before the fishes developed in the oceans or the reptiles appeared on land.

At the Garson quarries fossil corals, shells and cephalopods are abundant, but trilobites, distant relatives of present-day lobsters, crabs and crayfish, are scarce, and those found are usually but one to two inches in length.

Great was the pleasure therefore of Mr. Percy H. Stokes, well-known Winnipeg amateur paleontologist, when recently he saw a small portion of a fossil in a block of waste rock at Garson, gave it a careful blow with hammer and chisel, and exposed, after a burial of 350 million years, what is believed to be the largest trilobite yet found in the Tyndall limestone.

It measures 4½x3 inches, and, to add to its uniqueness, in the upper part of the boulder is a perfect impression of this exceptionally fine specimen. Both fossil and mold were trimmed to exhibition size by courtesy of Mr. F. D. Oliver of the Tyndall Quarry Co., Winnipeg. Trilobites are of prime importance to geologists, who use them as index fossils for dating rock formations because they existed over a vast period of time, were of world-wide distribution, enormous abundance, and great variety of species.

This dominance and lengthy ancestry indicate the trilobite's ability, in its struggle for survival against changing conditions, enemies and climates, to adapt itself to varying environments but eventually they became so highly specialized that radical changes in conditions overwhelmed them and the trilobites disappeared some 60 million years ago after an existence in the sea of over 300 million years.

The present-day King Crab is a distant surviving relative. More than 3,000 species of trilobites are known but as one third of these appear in Cambrian strata, the earliest rocks containing identifiable fossils, the

So far it has never failed. With grinding gears and hissing steam, with groans of pain in every joint of its aged body, it crawls slowly up the hill and at the top, with its last breath, it announces its triumph in four piercing blasts of its whistle. It has made the grade again.

Then, and not a moment before, a man can go to sleep, assured that the scheme of things is still in working order and probably will last till dawn.

So we sleep soundly hereabouts. We arise in the morning, each facing his own private bill of labor, and somehow we make the grade. Last night, however, we listened in vain for the first rattle to the northward. We waited for the wheezy gasps of our old friend, the whistle which would tell us that all was well. There was no sound in the night. The train did not run and none of us could sleep.

I dare say there was some good reason for this change in the railway's schedule. Railways, I suppose, do not operate their trains to suit the whims of people who pay no fares and lie unprofitably in their beds.

Still, it is a grave responsibility to interrupt the spiritual timetable of the nation. From one coast to the other, in the lonely places of Canada, men listen for the regular passage of trains and come to depend on them as on the sunset and the dawn. For many inhabitants of the wilderness the locomotive is the only visitor from the distant world of civilization, its whistle the only sure communication with their unseen fellows far away.

THE railway managers doubtless think they are merely hauling goods and supporting the national economy. They do not seem to realize that they are hauling much more precious freight never noted in their bills of lading and supporting an inner lifeline which no economist can measure.

Anyway, it was a grievous shock to us all when the train failed to run last night and no screaming whistle sang us to sleep. Without that inspiring example—the old locomotive rushing recklessly at the hill, slowing to a painful crawl and then rolling comfortably down to the distant sea—none of us could quite make the grade today. And when my typewriter collapsed at the same time my whole faith in the age of machinery collapsed also. The scheme of things was out of joint. And now the final disaster (or is it a relief?) My pen is out of ink and I am alone and friendless in the jungle.

And Both on the Same Team, Too!

WHO!

Talking about horses on the government payroll the question arises were their coils on family allowance? This is what the Liberals call stable government. Currie states this to be true, but the Liberals say "Neigh." So why not change horses in midstream if they are being paid to do so?

I'm afraid that on August 10 these horses are going to look like the east end of a Liberal going west.

RED HOT DENIAL

Mr. Arsens has again repeated the charges of Clotworthy-Reid, etc., that Communism and immorality are being taught in our public schools. Neither Clotworthy, Reid, Arsens, nor any other person making these charges has produced one single bit of evidence to support the accusations.

The government of this province is falling in its duty if it does not insist that these people produce definite evidence in support of their charges or make complete withdrawal, having revealed themselves as dirty-minded peddlers of malicious, evil gossip.

UN SEMINAR

It is encouraging to read your editorial regarding the United Nations, bringing to the attention of the public the summer seminar to be held at UBC this month and open to High School students.

I hope it will interest your readers to know that the Chemainus United Nations Group, although small in number as to membership, is sponsoring a student who will attend the seminar and report back to her school and her home town. This is only one of the many constructive activities which have been carried on by this small group since it was formed just over four years ago. I hope other towns will follow suit and support the seminar which commences August 9.

OFF-THE-ROLL

In the campaign literature distributed by the LPP candidate for Victoria, Mr. Tom Seibert, he states that he is a member of Branch 187 of the Canadian Legion in Vancouver.

As it is against the policy of the Legion to have as a member anyone connected with Communism this statement was checked with Branch 187.

The answer is that Seibert was a member for one year and paid dues for one year when the Branch was first formed, but never paid again and has been off the roll for several years.

I should be obliged if you would publish this explanation.

ARE THEY THE SAME?

One never hears of an Independent Liberal or Conservative candidate or even Independent CCF, and it seems rather confusing that a candidate can claim to be Independent Social Credit when the whole idea of the movement seems to be to put these ideas into practice by means of a representative government.

I believe Major Jukes is a fine man (I remember when he was interested in the Oxford Group Movement), but unfortunately, human beings have the tendency to stay with the first splendid ideas that have impressed them, and forget that these have to progress and keep up with the times and prevailing conditions.

Methods of approach must often be changed although principles remain the same, e.g., the Liberals once stood for free trade among countries but have had to drop that idea with world conditions.

I would like to see Major Jukes advancing with the Social Credit ideas and putting his solid shoulder to the wheel—helping to push these ideas into reality by joining the present up-to-date group, and by backing the candidate that they have chosen to represent them, one who will work with, and for, the government of B.C. to bring benefits to those of us who live here.

Working alone one man can do so little, we are so dependent on one another.

We all have the freedom to think and choose for ourselves, but we need to work in-unison with others to get the greatest results.

OVERLOOKED?

One can not but be amused from the continuous reading of Mr. Drew's assertion, that if his party is returned to power in Ottawa, he would immediately reduce the annual taxation, payable by the citizens of Canada, by some half a billion dollars.

In times of prosperity, abundance of trade, unemployment, generally good times, together with exceptionally good wages, the prudent man usually endeavors to reduce his outstanding indebtedness.

Now, that is exactly what the Liberal government has been doing for the past number of years. From the reports of the minister of finance, it is ascertained that the total amount of annual interest on the national debt has been reduced, since 1949, by over $75,000,000. Suppose we take the average of interest on the outstanding bonds, say at 3 per cent, it is quite easy to estimate that the national debt has been reduced by over $2,500,000,000. And then, if you consider the interest saved on these bonds, there would be an additional saving of over $300,000,000. What a record!

Why have Mr. Drew and his associates completely ignored these figures? Does he propose to maintain the national debt at its current face standing, or is he going to increase it by $500,000,000 a year?

SPARKLE RETURNS

'Tis a fortunate fact that Bruce Hutchison comes home to Victoria—that the impact of his writing springs from a lively appreciation of the good things of his chosen domicile.

From Bruce we learn many things—of our being a bit mad, for instance. That a light-house has no place on a busy avenue. That Canada is an unknown country and that an incredible Canadian walked, talked, lived and died among us—and yet was lonely.

Bruce goes away to distant climes and things are not the same. The voice of the Times reflects the overseas vista of our distinguished citizen but the magic of the city is dimmed, buried beneath its own inarticulate soul. We hear only echoes from afar, for Bruce is away.

When he comes home, the scintillating sparkle returns. Victoria looks up to its literary light, who pretendeth he hates the country.

The soul of the city becomes articulate, the spirit of the West is abroad and given to the printed page.

And we know we are not alone in our madness. The common rung of each ladder leading upward to the sanity which breathes above.

After all, Bruce Hutchison is back! ALAN L. GREIG.

Attempt to Save Canada?

ELECTION campaigns bring to light, both on the hustings and elsewhere, all sorts of views on all sorts of subjects besides those that are at issue at the particular time. Such views, of course, while they may not help to solve the immediate problems facing the electorate serve at least one good purpose: They remind us that freedom to express an opinion—however crazy that opinion may appear to others—is still one of the inherent and cherished rights of citizens in a democracy.

That's why I read with interest a letter to the editor of the Montreal Star in which the writer advocated, among other things, the placing of greater limitations upon our system of voting, which he considered "so illogical as to be absurd." Its absurdity, in his opinion, lies in its failure to sort out those who should have the franchise from those who should not.

As he puts it: "The street corner loafer is placed on the same level in the elections, as our most distinguished citizens. The minimum voting age should be 25 and the franchise given to those only who can pass a test as to intelligence and knowledge, to prove that they know what they are voting about."

INTELLIGENCE TESTS?

Our democratic system of voting is based upon the belief that all men are equal at the ballot-box once they have fulfilled the citizenship requirements as to age, nationality and residence. It certainly does not preclude the street-corner loafer from voting just because he happens to be a street-corner loafer. Heaven forbid that it ever should! For once we start imposing grades and gradations among voters then we shall have taken the first step towards authoritarianism and dictatorship.

As to the suggestion that the franchise be given only to those who can pass a test as to intelligence and knowledge, while in theory that sounds fine, in practice it might well prove the opposite. Who would be chosen to prepare and apply those tests? Why, government officials, of course. And who knows, the day might conceivably come when a Canadian Hitler or Mussolini could use such tests to eliminate from the ballot booths all those who did not agree with their political aims.

The same Montreal correspondent also writes that there are too many members of Parliament with either a legal or medical background, and claims that if these were withdrawn from the Federal ranks there would scarcely be a quorum left. He takes issue with this situation on the ground that this preponderance of doctors and lawyers prevents the House of Commons from being a true cross-section of the Canadian people.

That may be. But it seems to me that his stand on this point is a complete reversal of his contention that only those of knowledge and intelligence should be allowed to vote. Lawyers and doctors by their very training and profession acquire a close insight into the problems of their fellow-men which is invaluable in the carrying out of their legislative duties. And it will be a sorry day for Canada when such professional people are in the minority and our parliaments become dominated by those who substitute emotionalism for intelligence and vague theories for practical "know-how."

Mutual Respect... Warm Liking

THE curious story of the relationships between Robert A. Taft and Dwight D. Eisenhower tells a lot about Taft, as well as suggesting the kind of gap that can be produced by Taft's absence from the Senate.

It must be remembered that these two men, who became such intimate partners, began with the profoundest suspicions of each other. For Taft, even before Eisenhower made his great decision, the general was always a potential rival and, what was worse, a member of "George Marshall's group" in the army. This was the senator's shorthand for the more world-minded military officers, whom he frankly intended to replace if he got the chance to replace "Douglas MacArthur's group."

And for Eisenhower, by the same token, Taft was always the symbol of wrong-headedness about America's world role. The threat that Taft would receive the Republican nomination was the lever, in truth, that forced Eisenhower into politics.

At Denver, before the Chicago convention, Eisenhower was being quizzed by the reporters as to his motives for entering the presidential race. His final, and his frank answer was, "because Bob Taft is an isolationist, I suppose."

Despite the good sportsmanship with which Taft accepted the disappointment of his highest hopes, the experiences of the campaign hardly made matters better between the two men. Appearances were preserved, but that was all. The real state of their relations was disclosed—indeed was luridly illuminated—by Taft's bitter attack on Eisenhower's choice of Martin Durkin as Secretary of Labor.

In some sense, however, this was a turning point. The professional Republican politicians hastened to point out to the President-elect that if he did not choose to work with Sen. Taft, he must get ready to fight him to the death. They added that a fight with Taft would render the party asunder and cripple the President in Congress. Meanwhile, one suspects, Sen. Taft was also impressed by the failure of any of his usual allies to support his Durkin statement.

At any rate, from this incident the decision clearly arose, in the minds of both these men, that they must work together somehow. At first it cannot have been easy. But before long mutual respect was born and then a warm liking.

The story has been told before, of how Taft remarked, almost with an air of surprise, that he was finding Eisenhower "a man of good will." What was more interesting and revealing was the rapid change in Eisenhower's assessment of Taft. Previously, Eisenhower had only known what may be called Taft's public face. Exposure to Taft's working face produced an entirely different estimate of the man.

This was, indeed, one of the keys to Sen. Taft's political career.

When on the stump, when involved in public debate, Taft did not imitate other politicians in speaking softly and walking carefully. Partly because of his essential honesty, partly because of his combativeness, Taft spoke more strongly, he expressed his views in a more extreme manner, he was more than usually careless of those who might disagree with him.

Hence the people who only saw Taft's public face were sharply divided into those who agreed with him, who were passionate in their admiration, and those who disagreed, who were almost equally passionate in their distrust.

Taft at work, in contrast, showed all his deeper qualities of courage and determination, intelligence, practicality, unremitting industry. Close to, even more than in public, the style of Taft the man, the humor, the absence of the slightest trace of stuffed shirt, also showed very strongly.

These were the qualities that made Taft a great and deeply respected legislator—one of the few members of Congress in our times, indeed, to make an enormous national place for himself by the simple performance of his legislative duties and functions. And Taft's largeness, his capacity for work, his unvarying command of facts and situations, ended by producing an astonishing reversal at the White House.

Automobile of Tomorrow

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Hal Hayes, a millionaire contractor who built the world's first atom bombproof mansion, today unveiled his latest creation—the automobile of tomorrow with a built-in office.

This amazing auto takes the prize as the year's most spectacular car in filmville, and outdoors the purple Cadillac, white Jaguar, Donald O'Connor's leopard skin seat covers and a cowboy actor's white convertible with steer horns on the radiator cap.

Hayes' car is designed for the tired and economical businessman who wants to do away with his office. This way you carry the office with you.

The car features a bar built into the trunk compartment, a dictaphone, telephone, typewriter, and 10 folding chairs in case he wants to stop the car and entertain some business associates at the curb.

The fancy car is especially startling to moviegoers when Hayes cruises down Sunset Boulevard because he had the gray Cadillac convertible built nearly three feet longer than usual.

He also tried putting 24 karat gold instead of chrome as trim on the car, but thought better of it.

"I took most of it off," he explained bashfully. "I decided it would be a little too much. I was getting razed about it."

On the dashboard are electronic switches. He can turn on the light inside the house and draw the drapes while he is miles away. "I take my secretary along and dictate on the way to appointments," he explained. "Then while I'm parked she types the letters."

Hayes' house has achieved fame since he built it six months ago. Architects still line up to gaze at the trees that grow through the floors and ceilings and the rug that slides up the wall to become a blackout curtain. There's a swimming pool half indoors and half out, a tunnel for a front hall, a television set built into a tree and a bomb shelter with an oxygen tank.

Last week the handsome bachelor gave a belated housewarming dinner dance for 250 amazed moviegoers, including Peter Lawford, Ginny Sims, Danny Kaye, James Mason, Macdonald Carey, Ann Miller and John Payne.

Many of the guests crowded around his new auto which was parked on a gadget he designed—two steel beams that stretch into thin air over the cliff. How he gets out of the car after parking it, he wouldn't say.

ISLAND DIGEST

NANAIMO—Singing cowboy star Wilf Garter will play in Nanaimo and Duncan next week. He will present a two-hour show at Nanaimo Civic Arena on Tuesday, Aug. 11, and at Duncan Curling Rink, Wednesday, Aug. 12.

Appearing with Garter will be Red Garrett and his Tennessee Pioneers, who are regular performers on Grand Ole Opry broadcasts from Nashville, and Freddy Lang of Penicton, who recently was crowned world champion old-time fiddler.

DUNCAN—A. V. Richardson Ltd., Duncan, was the only firm to tender on construction of a control building and foundation for a 60,000-volt substation for B.C. Power Commission here.

The Richardson firm entered a bid of $8,311. The substation is to be located north of Sherman Road on the old Island highway. The new substation will replace the existing 60,000-volt substation at the old Duncan diesel power house site.

SIDNEY—Word has been received that Dick Dickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Dickson, Fourth Street, has reached Alexandria, Minnesota, on his current bicycle tour with a Vancouver companion. The two covered 1,767 miles in 18 days. They are heading for New York, and from there will cross the Atlantic to resume their cycling in Europe.

NANAIMO—All candidates contesting the Nanaimo federal riding have been invited to take part in a joint meeting arranged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for Thursday at Comox Park.

All candidates except Social Crediter Frank Hodgson have indicated they will attend. It is understood Health Minister Eric Martin will speak in place of Mr. Hodgson.

LAKE COWICHAN—The RCMP detachment at Lake Cowichan has moved into new quarters here. A new building situated between Stanley and Gordon Roads, on the bank of the Cowichan River, was formally turned over to Inspector C. Harvey, officer commanding the Victoria subdivision, by L. S. W. Wells, district architect for the federal works department last Thursday.

DUNCAN—Ratepayers will be asked to vote Aug. 17 on whether they want to spend $65,000 for a new city hall.

The proposed hall would be built next to the fire hall. The building would be one-story with provision made for a second floor to be added later.

In addition to offices, the building would provide one large room which would serve as council chamber and police court.

Mayor J. C. Wragg reported Monday night in the Cowichan area have offered to turn out special local wood to be used for the interior of the building.

LITTLE HOPE FOR YOUTH—THE PAS, Man. (BUP)—The RCMP held "little hope" today for the safety of a youth missing in mosquito-infested bush country of northern Manitoba since July 24.

Two RCMP planes and an RCAF Dakota aircraft combed the wilderness area near William Lake, 470 miles northwest of Winnipeg, all Monday without sighting 18-year-old Norman Buck of The Pas.

The youth became separated from a group of young men while on a hunting trip. He was wearing only a flimsy sports shirt and tropical trousers.

A WESTERN shipper thought this one up. He handles freight to and from Alaska by means of aluminum vans which are loaded, driven to the dock, and there lifted by cranes from their chassis into the ship's hold. Saves a lot of cargo handling, damage and pilfering. The van can be individually heated or refrigerated to protect special cargoes, too.

More than a thousand different Canadian companies keep busy turning Canadian-made aluminum into everything from ash trays to minisweepers. And it keeps us busy wondering how next they will use this modern metal to save weight, or time, or trouble, or dollars for somebody. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

PRAIRIE ROUND-UP

Wide Air, Ground Search Fails To Find Lost Mountain Climber

EDMONTON, Alta. (BUP)—An air and ground search continued today for a mountaineer missing in Jasper National Park for more than six days.

An aircraft, carrying an RCMP constable as observer, swooped low over the jagged peaks of the Rockies Monday as ground parties trekked deep into the mountains hunting for A. A. McCourey, 32, of Winnipeg, but by nightfall no trace of him had been found.

Park rangers, soldiers and mounties resumed the search at dawn along the wild outcrops of Mount Brown.

McCourey, an experienced mountain climber and member of the Canadian Alpine Club, set out last Wednesday at the head of a party of inexperienced climbers who were making an assault on the summit of Mount Brown. At the 6,000-foot level, however, Brown decided to return to the base camp and let the rest of the group go on themselves.

The party returned to Jasper.

Alta., the next day but McCourey has not been seen since he turned back.

FAIR SETS RECORDS

REGINA, Sask. (BUP)—Regina exhibition officials said today the 1953 fair which ended last week-end set new records for both attendance and betting at the race track pari-mutuels.

The six-day exhibition, which coincided with Regina celebraing its first half-century as a city, drew a record total of 186,267 persons, about 15,000 more than the previous all-time high set in 1952.

A total of $589,182 was wagered at the race track wickets, about $16,000 more than last year even though the 1953 card was cut short to five days when the jockeys refused to race their horses on a muddy track last Tuesday.

STORM HITS CALGARY

CALGARY (CP)—A vicious thunderstorm, lashed Calgary Monday night, dumping at least an inch of water on the city within half-an-hour.

The storm, worst so far this year in the Calgary district, snarled traffic, blocked highways and disrupted telephone communications.

Sheets of rain, accompanied by thunder, fork lightning and a little hail, pelted down for almost an hour, trapping motorists and pedestrians on city streets.

(with a very important man at the base!)

KEY TO FACES:

Top: This man represents The Spirit of Building—especially the building of homes, schools, roads, power plants and other useful developments often financed by invested life insurance dollars.

Second from top: Here is The Spirit of Health, as promoted through medical research projects aided by life insurance companies. These projects support science's war against polio, cancer, heart disease and processes of ageing.

Third from top: The Spirit of Employment is symbolized by this worker. He might be any of the thousands of workers with good jobs in some of Canada's new factories, which life insurance dollars have helped to create.

Base: The Spirit of Life Insurance, represented by a policyholder, is put here because in a certain sense all the others depend upon him. It is money from his premiums, invested by his life insurance company, that so often helps them serve you in all these useful ways.

Vancouver Boys Face Housebreaking Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two 14-year-old boys, described by police as "money-hungry," were charged Monday with breaking into 11 homes in the West End.

Youth detail officers said the boys are from good homes in the same district and were acquainted with some of their victims. Their total loot is estimated at $500, most of which has been recovered.

The boys admitted their method was to ring the doorbell and then climb through open windows if there was no answer.

TWO for the SHOW

By PHIL LEE

AA (Oscar Class) A (Don't Miss)

BB (Worthwhile) BB (For Rainy Days) C (Go to the Movies)

(A PLUS) "THE CLOWN" (Capitol)—Recognized as one of the greatest comedians alive today, Red Skelton in MGM's "The Clown" does what every comedian has wanted to do since the theatre began, play a tragedy.

The difference between Skelton and the rest of those who have tried to become Hamlets is that Skelton succeeds where most of the others have failed. It isn't the story by Frances Marion that makes this such a successful picture, for "The Clown" has a rather trite plot that the average film fan will have little trouble guessing. Rather it is the sound acting of young Tim Considine and the surprising show put on by the amazing Skelton himself that elevates "The Clown" into the smash-hit class.

With its hard core of story not unlike Charlie Chaplin's fine "Limelight," "The Clown" is about a famous Ziegfeld co-star, Dodo Delwyn (Red Skelton) who has taken to drink and has hit the skids. Even the one night stands and the honky-tonks don't want him any more. But sticking with him through thick and thin is his young son, Dink (Considine). Dink is the reminder of another life when the funnyman was married to Paula (Jane Greer), who later divorced him.

to marry businessman Ralph Henderson (Philip Ober).

For young Dink it is a life of discouragement and disappointment. His is a life of dumpy, sleepy rooms, of pawnshops, broken promises, little sleep and few breaks. Worst of all, his is the life of following his beloved father around from one dive to another, sobering him up for another new job that he always loses.

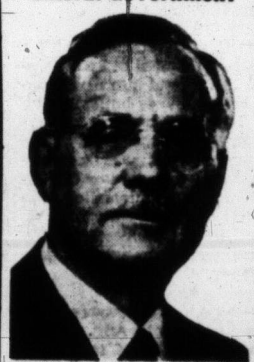

Through the lad's efforts Goldie (Loring Smith), the agent who had managed his father in the good old Ziegfeld days, gets Skelton back on the road again, pointing towards a brand new career, this one on television. But before this the comedian sees that he isn't a fit father for the boy and tries to send him off to live with his mother.

Truly this is a beautiful picture, heart-warming and intimate, the kind you don't soon forget. All the stars are as good as the supporting members of the cast. But the picture is Skelton's first, last and foremost. The funnyman is there, the one we all know, the man who has made us laugh for a very long time now. But so is the other man, the new and very wonderful Skelton.

If there is a note of regret in "The Clown," it is for all the children who went to the Capitol Theatre for the opening matinee on Monday. Obviously they went there for the laughs, for the "old" Skelton who always made 'em clutch their sides from laughter. Instead, they found it was necessary to carry a handkerchief. For the tears were more frequent than the slapstick.

Congratulations from this corner, Mr. Red Skelton.

Unknown Poison Caused Death of Seattle Communist

SEATTLE (AP)—Authorities said Monday an unidentified poison killed William J. Penneck, one of seven defendants in the government's long Communist-conspiracy trial here, whose body was found in his home Sunday.

An autopsy report said Penneck died of "acute corrosive gastritis, cause and type of poison unknown."

Dr. Gale Wilson, King County, autopsy surgeon, said tests were started to determine the kind and amount of poison.

Penneck, 38, who admitted Communist Party membership during his testimony last week, was found dead by his wife in his bed at home. He and six other accused of conspiring to advocate overthrow of the government by force have been free on bond during the 3½-month trial.

Lloyd Leads In Dollar Race

CHICAGO (UP) — Lloyd Mangrum, who has won more money on a golf course than any other man since Second World War, had another $3,420 to pocket today for his third triumph in six years in the annual "All-American" Open at Tam O'Shanter.

Mangrum, never far off the pace during the 72-hole event, came through with a five-under-par 67 on the final round for a total score of 275, six over Byron Nelson's 1945 record, but 13 under par and three strokes ahead of his nearest competitors.

Trailing him at 278, and each earning $2,180, were Ted Kroll, Utica, N.Y., and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Spring, W.Va. Kroll finished with two birdies for a 67, while Snead had a birdie, and an eagle in the last four holes for a 68.

Mangrum, though, saved his best game for the final nine holes. He made his most impressive shot on the final green, chipping in 22 feet from the edge, for a birdie three.

His victory lifted him into first place in the 1953 money winners of golf with a total of $18,786.67 compared to $16,604.16 for Ben Hogan, the earlier leader.

The standout shot of the tournament was a hole in one marked up by Dutch Harrison, Ardmore, Okla., on the 160-yard third hole. His tee shot stopped against the pin and dropped in when a caddy pulled the flag.

STRANAHAN VICTOR
Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., won the men's amateur for the sixth straight year with a final 70 for par 288 for 72 holes. John Levinson, Chicago, was second with 291, while Paul Tarnow, Tampa, Fla., took third with 299.

Patty Berg, Chicago, matched par of 76 for a 308 total to take the women's open title for the third time, having won in 1943 and 1945. Defending champion Louise Suggs, Atlanta, Ga., was second with a 78 for 309.

Miss Suggs' earnings of $600 increased her total for 1953 to $18,216.25, highest in history for a woman, while Miss Berg held second place with a total of $13,623.37 on a $1,000 top prize.

Ranking Netters See Action Today

With the second day of play scheduled to get under way this afternoon, top-seeded men will see action in the singles events of the B.C. Lawn Tennis Championships.

Appearing on the courts at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club will be top-ranked Lawrence Barclay from Vancouver who will match strokes with Gordon Hartley, well-known local player. Also drawn to play is second-seeded Art Jeffrey, Vancouver, whose first round opponent will be Dr. J. A. Crane, Barkley.

In Monday's play third-seeded Jim Demas of Sacramento and fellow townsman, fourth-seeded Stan Hack, both advanced to the second round with victories from local players. Demas won from Jack Parker 6-4, 6-2, while Hack downed Jim Wells 6-0, 7-5.

Two local players advanced as city champ Ted Smythe ousted Jules Karlin, Missoula, Montana, 6-2, 6-2, and Peter Peacock won from Bill Keenan, Vancouver, 6-0, 6-3.

LOCALS DEFEATED
Localities who did not fare as well included Ron Mitchell and Rex Jackson. Mitchell met Bill Miliken, Tacoma, and came off second best in a baseline duel featuring many interesting rallies and good shots by both players. Score was 6-4, 6-1. Jackson elected to slug it out with Bunny Gillett, Los Angeles. However, the American player was much surer on service and volley and won 6-3, 6-1.

All favored ladies advanced in straight sets. Top-seeded Janet Hogg of Seattle won from Gwyn Dawson, Victoria, 6-0, 6-2, while second-favored Barbara Lum, Portland, ousted local junior Marilyn Bassett 6-0, 6-0.

U.S. RYDER CUP GOLF TEAM COMPLETED
CHICAGO (AP)—The All-American jamboree, if nothing else, settled the make-up of the 1953 U.S. Ryder Cup team that will play Britain's best at Wentworth, Eng., Oct. 2-3.
Joining Jim Turnesa and Burkemo, automatic team members because of their victories the last two years in the national PGA tourney, are: Snead, Jack Burke, Mangrum, Kroll, Middlecoff, Harrison, Oliver and Douglas.
All finished high in the All-American—Burke coming in with Bob Toski at 284—to gain enough points to make the team.

Janet Another 'Little Mo'?

BY DENNY BOYD

Keith Taylor of the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, host this week of the British Columbia Tennis Championships, ordinarily is a calm fellow.

But when he starts talking about Janet Hogg, whom he saw in Vancouver last week, playing in the Western Canada championships, his enthusiasm approaches hysteria.

Taylor, one of the local hopes in men's singles, describes the young Seattle co-ed as "another 'Mo' Connolly." And the fact that Miss Hogg is seeded first in the women's singles appears to bear Taylor out.

Getting Bigger

There have been a lot of fish caught this year, but each one seems to outdo the previous one. The happy gentleman above is Charlie Farrar, who hooked a 42-pounder at Cowichan Bay Saturday. He has only been fishing twice. The first time he caught a 20-pounder. Jim Peterson, the fellow on the right, went to Sooke and his prize was a 48-pound spring taken on a Mac's Squid plug, 50 feet of line and eight ounces of weight. Any more takers?

NOT WHITEY, LARRY

Marriage May Hurt Record Bid

An unlikely thing like marriage may prevent Whitey Severson from establishing a new scoring record for the Intercity Lacrosse League.

And to make matters worse, Severson has no part in these particular nuptials. In this case it is the marriage of Larry Booth, Severson's linemate, who Saturday night took for his bride the former Irene Wilson.

Now honeymooning, Booth is not expected back in the Shamrock line-up until the beginning of playoffs, necessitating a shuffle in the first-string line.

Severson leads league scorers with 95 points and needs 12 more points in the Rocks last four league games to tie the scoring record set by himself and Archie Browning last year—a phenomenal 107 points.

Booth is in second place with 67 points and unless he returns unexpectedly, will finish the season with that total.

NORTHUP GOAL LEADER

In third place, giving the Rocks the top three spots in the point derby is Jackie Northup who leads the league in goals scored with 51. He has 13 assists for a total of 64 points.

Also resulting from the meeting were two minor rule changes. A motion was adopted to allow an attacking player to remain behind an opponent's goal, while in possession of the ball, for only 10 seconds. Second change is to the effect that if a goalie is given a major or misconduct penalty, any player who is stripped for the game, excluding the spare goalie, may take his place.

Shamrocks will be out to clinch the league championship tonight when they meet Vancouver Pilseners in the mainland city.

Missing faces and why

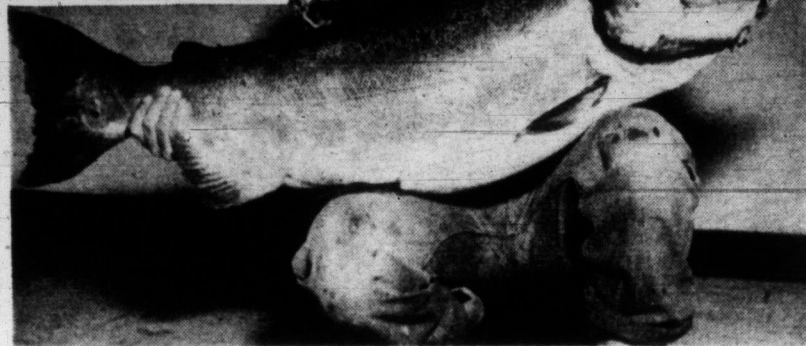

Incidentally, Livingstone, a high school language teacher in San Francisco, will chalk this up as his 15th year of tournament competition. In 1945 he was ranked sixth among U.S. doubles players and 13th in singles. He has not entered the singles in this tournament but will be a dominating figure in doubles competition.

Missing faces and why department—Ageless Bill Dunbar, a fixture in local net competition, has not entered the open events but hopes to be in the veterans' play. Seems Bill was swimming Sunday, dove into the water without looking and ran chest-on into a barnacle-studded rock. His chest and stomach received lacerations.

Have you noticed that you haven't noticed Marg Bonner's name in any entry lists? Marg, city champion, has other things to do this week, Marriage.

Jack Butt and Ted Smythe were the only local netters to receive seedings, rating fourth place in the men's doubles listings.

And last but by no means least, something should be done about the dazzling shark-skin stacks worn by Gary Stanley Monday afternoon. If the sun ever comes out while he is wearing them, people could be blinded by the glare.

MAJOR LEAGUE CROWD MARK ON PAR WITH '52

NEW YORK (AP)—Major league club owners, many of whom spent the early part of the season counting their losses at the gate, are breathing a lot easier these days.

An Associated Press survey disclosed today that attendance at major league ball parks in 1953 has pulled almost even with last year's figures, with two clubs already over 1,000,000.

To date, major league teams have played before 9,850,232 customers. Last year, they drew 9,859,971 at a comparable period. That's a drop of only 9,739.

The transplanted Milwaukee Braves, who have attracted 1,096,949 fans in 48 home games, are responsible for the gain of 804,530 shown by the National League. The world champion New York Yankees, with 1,034,505 paid, are the only American League team running ahead of last year's figures.

Shamrocks Refused Transfer Requests

Hopes held by Victoria Shamrock officials that player aid was coming in the form of veteran Jake Proctor and Bob Brenner of last-place Salmonacs were shattered at an Intercity Lacrosse League commission meeting in Vancouver Monday night.

Shamrock coach, Red McMillan, had been negotiating with Proctor and Brenner and had forwarded a letter to the commission requesting their services. Both were reported as being at odds with the Salmonac management.

With Archie Browning and Len Scott probably out for the remainder of the season McMillan had hoped to replace them with the New Westminster players.

However, the commission denied the request.

Also resulting from the meeting were two minor rule changes. A motion was adopted to allow an attacking player to remain behind an opponent's goal, while in possession of the ball, for only 10 seconds.

Second change is to the effect that if a goalie is given a major or misconduct penalty, any player who is stripped for the game, excluding the spare goalie, may take his place.

Shamrocks will be out to clinch the league championship tonight when they meet Vancouver Pilseners in the mainland city.

Have you noticed that you haven't noticed Marg Bonner's name in any entry lists? Marg, college champion, has other things to do this week. Marriage.

Jack Butt and Ted Smythe were the only local netters to receive seedlings, rating fourth place in the men's doubles listing.

And last but by no means least, something should be done about the dazzling sharkskin slacks worn by Gary Stanley Monday afternoon. If the sun ever comes out while he is wearing them, people could be blinded by the glare.

Coach Ronnie Benn of Butler Bros. Aces is losing a lot of sleep these nights wondering what the next day is going to bring.

Fosters Close Gap On Clubmen

Joe Fosters continued their relentless pursuit of league-leading Tillamums in the Senior B Men's Softball League, defeating Grand Spot, 6-1, Monday night.

Victory for Fosters left them one full game behind the leaders.

Right-hander Norm Nickle was the bright light for Fosters, going the distance for the victory. Nickle had a no-hitter going into the seventh.

He lost his shutout in the ninth after two were out. Three successive hits and a walk accounted for the Newsies' one run.

Tonight's scheduled contest between Tillamums and Esquimalt Athletics is now scheduled to meet Fosters in a replay of their fifth game in the league zone finals Wednesday night at Heywood Avenue Park at 6:45.

Dillinger Leads PCL Hit Parade

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Bob Dillinger of Sacramento, a third baseman who has been playing left field recently, leads Pacific Coast League batters with a hefty .344 average. He has 157 hits in 456 times at bat in 122 games.

Fred Richards, Los Angeles first baseman, tops the league in number of hits—169 in 547 times up in 132 games. His average is .309.

Dale Long, Hollywood first baseman, is the league's home run king with 24, and leads in runs batted in at 87.

Jim Walsh of Hollywood has replaced Oakland's Al Gettel as the league's No. 1 hurler on the basis of innings pitched.

Official pitching averages, including games of Sunday, Aug. 2, showed Tuesday Walsh has a percentage of .733 compared to .690 reported for Gettel.

Gettel, however, has won the most games, 20; pitched the most innings, 234, and leads in strikeout, 114.

Stars Increase Lead

Hollywood's scrapping Stars are six games out in front in the race for the Pacific Coast League flag.

Hollywood dumped Sacramento, 6-3, Monday night before 9,635 fans while Los Angeles invaded Seattle and downed the second-place Rainiers, 3-2.

Calvin Coolidge McLish, Los Angeles' fast ball right hander, held Seattle to four hits, one of

Stanky to Boss Cards Until '56

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Manager Eddie Stanky of St. Louis Cardinals is in solid with his boss even though his club has faltered in the pennant race. Monday he was given a contract extension through 1956.

Stanky also is to have a bigger voice in a long-range Cardinals rebuilding program and a free hand to experiment with young players.

Contract calls for the same salary Stanky has been receiving, about $40,000 a year.

"It's one of the biggest honors I have ever received in baseball," Stanky said.

Canada's Net Team Remains Unchanged

MONTREAL (CP)—If enthusiasm shown in practice is any yardstick, the forthcoming Canada-Cuba Davis Cup tennis tie should be a sizzler.

The two teams worked out Sunday and Monday on the grass courts of the Mount Royal Club, where they will meet Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the second round of the North American zone competition.

Winner of the tie will meet the United States, Canada beat Mexico 3-2 in the first round, while Cuba got a bye.

The Cubans, Orlando Garrido, 22; Reynaldo Garrido, 19, and playing captain Ricardo Morales, 39, usually play on hard courts. However, they quickly caught on to the faster, trickier grass game.

Dr. Georges Leclerc, non-playing captain, said he will field the same team as won for Canada against Mexico: Lorne Main, 22, of Toronto and Vancouver; Henri Rochon, 29, Montreal; Paul Willey, 22, Vancouver, and Bob Bedard, 22, of Sherbrooke.

In practice sessions, the teams played at times as though the cup was at stake.

The Canadians are favored to win by a wide margin on the strength of their performance against Mexico and against a quartet of Australian Davis Cuppers during a recent exhibition series here.

Cuba picked its best for the tie. Orlando ranks No. 1 in his country and his brother Reynaldo is No. 2. Playing captain Morales is present holder, with Dr. J. Weiss of the Cuban national doubles championship.

He and Weiss eliminated the Garridos in winning the doubles title and it is likely Morales will play one of the doubles positions in the present tie while the youngsters play in the singles.

Net Stars Advance in Eastern Meet

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP)—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, the United States' one-two punch for the Davis Cup, Monday led the way into the second round of the Eastern grass courts tennis championships, top preview for the Nationals.

Seixas, the big Philadelphia, polished off Jacquelin Reyes of Mexico, 6-1, 6-3, and Trabert, ex-sailor from the University of Cincinnati, eliminated Seth Petersen of San Francisco, 6-1, 9-7.

Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, Australia's 18-year-old standard-bearers, also whipped through their matches. Rosewall trimmed Chauncey Steele of Cambridge, Mass., 6-4, 6-1, and Hoad stopped Edward Kauder of San Bernardino, Calif., 6-2, 6-4.

SISLER SOLD—ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals Monday sold utility first-baseman Dick Sisler to Columbus, Ohio, of the American Association, where his brother serves as general manager.

Singles Bowling Champ Beaten

The biggest event of the year for local lawn bowlers—the 26th annual Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association tournament—got under way at five Greater Victoria greens Monday.

Grass keepers from south of the border and different points throughout the province took to the greens under cloudy skies to compete in first-round matches in men's and women's rinks and singles events.

At conclusion of the day most first-round single matches had been played and a good number of games in the rinks section completed.

W. Davidson's Victoria West rink, which has held the championship for the last three years, took only two victories in three matches. R. Allen of the Victoria club and S. Keeney-side of Vancouver both took three matches in sections seven and eight, respectively.

In the women's rinks section Mrs. Hicks of CPR, Mrs. Brack-enridge of West Point Grey, Mrs. W. Chambers of New Westminster and Mrs. E. Morr-itt of West Point Grey all remained undefeated.

Champion eliminated Men's singles defending champion, A. Hazlett of White Rock, was ousted by G. C. Eastwood of Victoria after winning his opening match.

Mrs. J. Berry of Hastings and Mrs. B. Bett of Victoria played a 19-end competition, Mrs. Bett taking the decision with one point in each of the 18th and 19th ends.

Fifth game in rinks events were scheduled to be played this morning with semifinals scheduled for competition this afternoon. Finals will be played Saturday in all events.

Wednesday will mark the start of the doubles competition. Mixed rinks will be contested Friday.

Pearkes Would Exempt Cities From Sales Tax

Municipal councils and school boards should be exempted from payment of excise and sales tax now charged on machinery and equipment purchased for use in the municipality, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative candidate, said Monday night at a Cordova Bay meeting.

The present system, he said, adds a burden on real estate which in turn discourages home building.

"A serious situation has arisen in municipalities as a result of the piling up of new taxes on farm and urban homes. This has been caused by the centralization of power at Ottawa," the general said.

DECENTRALIZATION AIM

The Progressive Conservatives, he continued, intend to reverse the present trend of centralization and concentration of taxing power at Ottawa to one of decentralization to provincial and municipal authorities.

Gen. Pearkes said surpluses are piling up at Ottawa while deficits are piling up in the municipalities.

"This trend is best illustrated by these figures. In 1933, about 50 cents of the tax dollar was taken by the federal government, the other 50 cents was divided among the provinces and the municipalities.

"Now the federal government is taking 78 cents out of the tax dollar, leaving only 12 cents for the provinces and 10 cents for the municipalities whose main responsibility is for health, education and all local services," said the general.

Wurtele Says Technicalities Block Sewer

Esquimalt's Forshaw-Shirley Roads area sewer development is still only in the planning stages it was reported at an Esquimalt council meeting Monday night.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele told council that the project had been labeled the "most complicated thing" he'd seen, by the deputy minister of municipal affairs.

The municipal engineer, clerk and a consulting surveyor are engaged in the planning.

Residents of the Forshaw-Shirley Roads area have sought sewer installation for three years. Septic tanks at present in use are impracticable, due to heavy clay deposits in the area.

Reeve Wurtele told council technical problems have stalled the sewerage by-law, but that reports would be made to the residents concerned as progress is noted.

Star Watchers See Galaxies Changing Color

There are one hundred thousand million stars in the earth's galaxy, G. J. Odgers, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, told a large audience attending a summer course in astronomy at the Sir James Douglas School Monday. Mr. Odgers pointed out there are also other galaxies or star clusters, as they are sometimes called. Some of these are larger than the earth's galaxy and can only be seen with a powerful telescope.

One of these galaxies referred to as the "red shift," is going through a remarkable change, Mr. Odgers said. Observations showed that the stars are appearing redder every year.

Some scientists believed that this indicated that the galaxy was moving away from the earth, he said.

Another galaxy, the Andromeda Nebula, which can only be seen as a small blob of light by the naked eye, is getting bluer.

Next Monday at the same place at 8.30 p.m., another lecture will be heard. The lecture will be "The Stars in Their Places," by Prof. Joel Stebbins. Nebula as a large galaxy, about the same size as the Milky Way.

Our thanks go to NEWFOUNDLAND, Canada's newest Province—justly proud of its long history, glorious traditions and the sturdy spirit of its sons and daughters. Here, as elsewhere, Pontiac stands high in public favor!

In beautiful PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND, honored birthplace of Canada's nationhood, Pontiac brings motoring pleasure and faithful service to the folk whose homes are by the seashore as well as those who live in its green farmlands.

From staunch NOVA SCOTIA, home Province of so many of our famous ships and famous men, came the forebears of many Canadians who now live in other parts of our land. In Nova Scotia too, Pontiac enjoys an ever-growing reputation for quality and value.

A salute also to NEW BRUNSWICK, that Province so abundantly blessed with sparkling waterways, noble forests and peaceful seaside coves. On the tree-shaded streets of her historic cities, you'll see many a Pontiac glide by.

Nowhere in North America is there a region more justly famed than the Province of QUEBEC. Here, where vigorous new industries are growing amid picturesque rural surroundings, more and more people are turning to Pontiac for all the motoring needs.

There's wholehearted acceptance of Pontiac in the Province of ONTARIO, industrial heartland of the nation, whose busy factories are producing more and more of the goods which have helped to give Canadians the second-highest living standard in the world.

Across the rolling grainfields of MANITOBA, there's an eager new stirring of interest and enterprise as Canada's horizons grow wider and new frontiers are developed. And many Manitobans have discovered that "Dollar for Dollar, You Can't Beat Pontiac."

Our thanks go also to another young and forward-looking Province, SASKATCHEWAN, where yesterday's achievements are already overshadowed by tomorrow's promise. In this Prairie Province, too, Pontiac's popularity is climbing fast.

All eyes are on ALBERTA, the dynamic source of the new and mighty Canadian petroleum industry. Each month, more and more Canadian-produced fuel is available for our automobiles. Each month, more and more of those automobiles are Pontiacs!

Across the Rockies now to BRITISH COLUMBIA, land of magnificent opportunity. Small wonder that this is Canada's fastest-growing Province. Here, as elsewhere, Pontiac has won a leading place in public favor. And so, our thanks go to you, wherever you are, for making Pontiac the fastest-growing car in popularity!

Esquimalt-City Union Talk Causes Council Flare-Up

Guillemaud Demands Sammon Retract Statement on Amalgamation With City

A threat that he would resign as chairman of municipal public works and lands committees unless Esquimalt councillor G. K. Sammon retracted his Monday statement regarding amalgamation was issued Monday night by Councillor G. R. Guillemaud.

But Cllr Sammon reiterated his stand before a meeting of the council.

Cllr. Guillemaud took issue with the argument of Cllr. Sammon published in the Times which charged the greatest benefit to be derived from union of Esquimalt and Victoria would be the wider field from which to choose councillors.

"The headline in tonight's paper says we are poorly qualified councillors," said Cllr. Guillemaud.

OFFERS JOB

"Unless Cllr. Sammon publicly retracts his statements then I will resign as chairman of public works and lands committees. Give him the job."

"The newspapers often publish information in a way which isn't meant at all," interrupted Reeve A. C. Wurtele, and Cllr. G. F. Argyle asked whether the matter should come up at council at all. He said Cllr. Sammon has a right to air his views.

Service Club Protest Gets Sale Stopped

Possible sale of land containing the Monroe Street gravel pit area to a private buyer by Esquimalt council drew a rebuttal from the Esquimalt Lions Club at a council meeting Monday night.

The Lions have been considering the site as a location for a community swimming pool.

A letter from the service club noted with regret the already approved sale. The club stated that council should have given it first option and said the action may have cost the youth of Esquimalt an outdoor swimming pool.

"It might appear that the Lions are dictating to the council," said Reeve A. C. Wurtele. "The decision to sell the land was made after due deliberation."

"I understood the seawater there was contaminated anyway," pointed out Cllr. W. H. Dallaway.

"The club spent a lot of money in conducting surveys on that property," stated Cllr. J. Bryant. "I voted against the sale, but like a lot of other things, it didn't get the consideration due it."

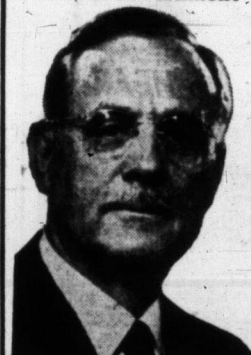

Council took advantage of the situation to rescind the motion agreeing to sale of the land "until we are assured it will be properly developed."

Trade With Sterling Bloc Says Skillings

Canada Follows U.S. Too Closely, Sacred Candidate Charges; Must Stand as Equal

Canada was told not to "tie" its affairs to "what they do in Washington, D.C.," by Waldo Skillings, Social Credit candidate for Victoria in the federal election, at a meeting in Fraser Street Hall, Monday night.

"It seems ludicrous that our secretary of state, Mike Pearson, must rush off to Washington and put up a trial balloon on Canadian policy before saying it in Ottawa," Mr. Skillings declared.

He told the audience of about 50 that such announcements should be made on the floor of the House of Commons.

"Play along with the Commonwealth first," he urged. "We in the British Empire are losing a terrific bet. We can't trade now because we're dollar bloc and Australia, South Africa and Great Britain are sterling."

Mr. Skillings emphasized he did not want his remarks construed to mean he was opposed to "fullest co-operation with the United States."

"I believe in the principle of the Monroe Doctrine—Canada and the United States must stand together but as equals, not as little joe and big joe."

WHY MINES IDLE

The speaker criticized government policy on mines. He said mines were shut up because of an "arbitrary and unfair price and regulations with no relation to true value."

"... All because the United States has got so much gold and silver it doesn't want any more mined. It's high time we accepted our responsibility as one of the foremost nations of the world."

In his best ex-school teacher manner Mr. Skillings gave his audience a quick run-through on the history of banking from

Farm, Not Arms, Jukes' Later Love

This is the fourth of a series intended to introduce the six Victoria candidates in the federal election to readers of the Times. The candidates are being introduced in alphabetical order. Today's subject is Major A. H. Jukes, Independent Social Credit.

BY MONTE ROBERTS

Up to the present, the career of Major A. H. Jukes has been divided almost exactly in half: 25 years as a soldier, 23 years as a farmer.

No doubt, during the years when he was a fighting man in India and France, he would have been angered by anyone who accused him of "just playing around" with soldering. Certainly he flares into tempestuous protest now at any suggestion he is a dilettante farmer, or that his 26 acres on the sea at Saanich are the playthings of a rich man.

When Major Jukes, a short, brisk-moving, sharp-voiced man with silver hair and dark, bristling eyebrows, is exercised about any subject, his eyes flash, his hands gesticulate, and his words try impatiently to overtake each other.

NO RESEMBLANCE

The surest way to spur him into action of this nature is to suggest the B.C. or Alberta brands of Social Credit have any resemblance whatsoever to the Douglas theories of Social Credit which he supports.

He first met Douglas in 1910; and they were close friends, mostly through correspondence, until Douglas' death.

Major Jukes acquired his Saanich property in 1930, when, at a time when he was secretary to the Imperial Council in India, he resigned his commission. "I had had enough of killing and destruction," he says.

The accomplishment of which he is most proud as a farmer is the development of a seedless grape, which he has called Saanich seedless. This, he believes, is one of the few places in the world where seedless grapes can be grown successfully.

SPARE-TIME CAMPAIGNER

He sells milk, butter and eggs (which he delivers himself in the surrounding area), maintains seven hives of bees, grows feed for his livestock. During his campaign as Independent Social Credit candidate, he has been trying to finish off the haymaking, will probably do so by election day.

Major Jukes first visited Vancouver Island shortly after the turn of the century when, as a lad, he attended naval school in what is now the Angela Hotel. He was born in Brandon, of UEL stock—his family on his father's side came to Canada in 1797.

His grandfather, who was born in Bombay, worked in Ontario as an engineer during the construction of the Welland Canal, later took up medicine, became the first Surgeon General of the RCMP (then the Royal Northwest Mounted Police).

Major Jukes moved from navy school here to Royal Military College at Kingston, and after graduation went to India for a year's study to qualify in languages and law as an officer in the Imperial Indian Army.

He was appointed to a famous Indian regiment, the Gurkha Brigade, and for the next quarter century, lived the army life.

SIX TIMES MENTIONED

In 1914, he went to France with his regiment, but the Canadian army asked for his services, and the request was granted. His majority was an on-the-field promotion, and he was awarded the DSO. He also earned six mentions-in-dispatches.

After the war, he returned to India in command of his regiment. There he attended the Imperial Staff College, and was destined for a military post with much higher responsibilities when he resigned.

At the time of his retirement, his pension plus the possibilities of rich Saanich land seemed adequate to take care of Major Jukes' needs, and add a few of the luxuries he would like to enjoy.

Unfortunately, his "retirement pay" is an Imperial—not conducive to riches in a hard dollar country. It works out to something less than $27 weekly.

Thus Major Jukes isn't kidding his neighbors when he answers the demanding "moos" from his milkers.

His great relaxation is sailing, and he is the owner of a 48-footer acquired, sight unseen, for $300 when she was abandoned near Kyuquot.

Major Jukes is the father of two sons and a daughter, all in Vancouver: Chris, project engineer on the new Granville Street Bridge; John, a director of Gulf Lines; and Mrs. G. W. Mackenzie.

Looking back on 25 years fighting and nearly 25 years farming, he says, a little wistfully: "I'd like to spend the next 25 years having fun."

The fifth article in the series on Thomas Selbert, L.P.P., will appear Wednesday.

LRB Intervention Asked In Saanich Wage Dispute

The provincial Labor Relations Board will be asked to intervene in wage negotiations between Saanich Municipal Employees' Association (TLC) and Saanich Council, a union official announced today.

The union official said the association's action is the result of a "misunderstanding" between Saanich employees and members of the council with regard to the transfer of 19 monthly-paid men to an hourly rate.

The misunderstanding has brought to a halt negotiations for a 1953 wage contract between the council and some 150 employees. It was expected a settlement would be reached this month.

The employees at a meeting Monday accepted practically all the council's proposals with regard to the reclassification and wages of employees. The only exception was the transfer of monthly-paid men to an hourly rate. They endorsed a proposal that the labor board be asked to interpret this issue.

The union claims that following the one-month strike of municipal employees in June, the council agreed to keep all its men on a monthly wage rate. It contends that was one of the terms of the settlement.

There's no social credit but Douglas social credit.

Protestants Protest Emissary to Vatican

Rev. Dr. J. B. Rowell Rouses Rally; Resolution Aimed at St. Laurent

A strongly-worded resolution protesting the suggestion that Canada send a government representative to the Vatican was passed unanimously Monday night at a rally called by the Canadian Protestant League here.

The meeting, held in Central Baptist Church, was roused by Dr. J. B. Rowell, president of the Victoria branch, Canadian Protestant League, who claimed sending a representative to the Vatican "would imply an acceptance of the Pope which would place Protestants in an impossible position."

Dr. Rowell's speech was punctuated with applause from the audience and the resolution finally submitted to the meeting was passed by a unanimous standing vote.

The meeting was called to protest Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent's recent statement that "the day will come when Canada will have an ambassador at the Vatican." The resolution is directed to the prime minister.

The preamble claimed such an appointment would be contrary to the wishes and principles of the majority of Canadians and would give a standard of recognition to the Roman Church which was not given any other church.

"Such a measure would be calculated to deepen the sense of division between Protestants and members of the Roman Church and inspire contention and bitterness and thus be against the peace and welfare of our Canadian life," the resolution stated.

It claimed further: "Introduction of such influence would be calculated to disturb and disrupt our internal relations."

The resolution cited the Vatican as a "political power, as well as religious, and her influence has ever been adverse to the interests of the British Empire—as government documents abundantly prove."

The resolution protested that the Roman Church "boasts that she excludes all others from freedom of worship," and "will make the shocking claim that she has the right to put heretics to death."

Rev. T. H. McAllister, minister of Gorge Presbyterian Church, was chairman of the meeting. Dr. Rowell is pastor of Central Baptist Church here.

Two Drivers Pay Stiff Penalties; Drinking Charged

Two motorists each was fined $200 in local police courts today for driving cars during the week-end while their ability was impaired by alcohol.

They were David Frederick McCall, Victoria, and Alvin A. Peterson, 710 Snowdrop.

Magistrate H. C. Hall was told in city court that McCall was involved in a collision with a parked car on Pandora in which about $900 damage was done. The same magistrate in Saanich court heard that Peterson was not in a collision but was arrested by Saanich police after the rear wheels of his car had become stuck in a ditch on Interurban Road.

Magistrate Hall said he would recommend a license suspension for Peterson to the motor vehicle superintendent. McCall appealed against a total suspension as he required his car for business.

Amalgamation Vote Sought This Year

Referendum In December?

A referendum on amalgamation of Esquimalt and Victoria may be voted on in December at the time of municipal elections.

Councillor G. K. Sammon, who created some furore at an Esquimalt council meeting Monday night with the amalgamation question (see story page 11), told the Times today he will have the referendum agreed to by council "this fall."

"I am in favor of a December referendum, but not unless the people of Esquimalt have had ample time to thoroughly study the question of uniting with the city," he stated.

The councillor pointed out that the Victoria Chamber of Commerce formed a committee almost two years ago to study every aspect of amalgamation. "The chamber group has offered its findings in an attempt to clarify the subject in an unbiased manner," he said.

FOR RATEPAYERS

"I will endeavor to pass on that information in its entirety to the ratepayers of Esquimalt. Although I am not intending to run again for council, I have a year and a half to devote to the task," Mr. Sammon promised.

He indicated Monday that he could depend on strong support of council "when all the facts are known."

Services already joined for Esquimalt and Victoria include schools, health services, library services, civil defense and social and welfare.

Esquimalt also pays per diem rates for use of Victoria hospitals and jail facilities and has asked the provincial government to amend the municipal act in order that donations may be made towards upkeep of the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria.

Esquimalt also uses and pays for Victoria's garbage disposal system and buys its water from the city.

Councillor Sammon contends that the municipality would benefit by having a larger field of candidates to choose from in municipal elections.

Veteran Engineer, Charles Clay Dies

Charles Henry Clay, retired engineer, died Monday at Rest Haven Hospital, aged 73.

Mr. Clay was engineer at James Island explosive works from 1914 to 1919, and shift engineer at Anxox smelter from 1919 to 1935. His home was on Mill Road at Sidney.

Funeral services, under the auspices of Sidney Lodge, A.F. & A.M., will be held Friday at 2:30 at McCall Bros' Funeral Home with Rev. William Buckingham officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

Tough Policemen Go Soft At Furry Pup's Appeal

Policemen can be tough and rough.

They can also be self-consciously gentle when they have lost little ones on their hands, whether puss, pup or tearstained child.

John W. Richardson, 129 Menzies, found a month-old furry pup at Government and Superior corner early today.

He brought it to Sergeant Tom Bannister at the city police charge office.

It's the same place they take lost little girls and boys. No child ever got more thoughtful treatment. The small wail was wrapped in a blanket until he stopped shivering.

A bottle of milk on the charge office counter stopped the little fellow's whimpering. And Sergeant Bannister chuckled when Times photographer Bill Halkett caught the picture, below.

Police are waiting for an owner to claim the pup... they are not pressing the search.

NEW ISLAND HIGHWAY LINK MAY BE IN USE THIS YEAR

The first section of Victoria's new Island Highway outlet is not expected to be ready for paving this year, a public works department official said today.

But there's a possibility, he said, the unsurfaced road may be ready for traffic before the end of the year.

The first section will be put into use as soon as ready and a hook-up with the existing highway will be provided in the Thetis Lake Road vicinity.

Ship Ride, Ceremonial To Feature Navy Day

Naden and Dockyard Gates Open August 19 to Victoria Guests

Navy Day for Victoria has been set for Aug. 19.

Instead of the gigantic display at Beacon Hill Park which drew thousands of spectators a year ago, the navy will entertain on its home grounds, so to speak, at HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard. In addition there will be a downtown parade and sunset ceremonies at Parliament Buildings.

Both HMCS Naden and HMC Dockyard will be open to the public from 1 to 5 p.m.

Two destroyers, Korean veterans, HMCS Sioux and Cayuga, the minesweeper Sault St. Marie and the United States destroyer escort USS Romback will be open for public inspection.

Sightseeing tours in Esquimalt harbor will be provided for the public every 45 minutes aboard the gate vessel, Porte of Quebec. She is 140 feet long and will be able to take more than 100 persons aboard on each trip.

Harbor craft will taxi the public between Naden and Dockyard.

500 TO MARCH

A 500-man parade will march through Victoria streets in the morning. It will leave Bay Street Armories at 10, move down Douglas Street, switch to Government on Fort Street, march past the Parliament Buildings and disperse at Macdonald Park. The reviewing stand will be in front of the Empress Hotel on the harbor side of Government Street.

Here are some of the displays the public will be able to see at Dockyard and Naden Barracks:

A passive defense show, which will include men jumping from second-story windows into nets; the "human anvil," a display given last year which depicts a civilian being moulded into a model sailor; a twin four-inch gun demonstration; a seamanship display; a frogman demonstration at close quarters and a gymnastics show, as well as displays in the various workshops.

WORKSHOP DISPLAY

Of the base plants which will be open, the electronics workshop, the central victualling depot, and the armaments depot should be the most interesting to the public.

Bands will be playing at both bases. At Dockyard the Winnipeg Set Cadet Band will make music wherever you go while Naden will have its own band in attendance.

Perhaps the most colorful display will be the reproduction of the ceremony conducted by all naval ships when they cross the equator. Picked "stooges" will be put through the rigorous initiations that all first-timers experience when they "cross the line."

In connection with Navy Day sunset ceremonies will be conducted by a naval guard and band on Aug. 18, 19, 20 and 21.

ASK THE TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me when and where in the recent provincial campaign, the following slogan originated? "If you believe in God, vote Bennett."

A.—Unlike some of the other slogans whose beginnings, it is believed, can be clearly traced to their source, the origin of this one is obscure.

Q.—Can you give me the total number of people in the Dominion who are entitled to vote in the coming election and the approximate cost of the late enumeration? C.M.C.

A.—In Victoria the civilian vote totals between 48,000 and 49,000. In addition there is the advance vote of the services, and fishermen and others, which will not be known until it is counted. As to the total possible vote in Canada, election officials say that not even the Chief Electoral Officer could tell that, as yet. The cost of the enumeration is a matter for statistical work still to be done.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria AYPAs will hold a beach party at Esquimalt Lagoon Wednesday. Gathering place is the Memorial Hall, 912 Vancouver Street, at 7:30.

"Next time you come before me for insurance you'll get a straight jail term," Magistrate H. C. Hall warned Roger Lavendure, 1107 Caledonia, when he appeared in city police court today. Lavendure pleaded guilty to unlawfully driving a car not covered by motor vehicle liability insurance. Court was told of several previous convictions against him for driving infractions. Lavendure was fined $35.

Death of Mrs. Eliza Emma Smillie, 86, of 2107 Blanshard, was termed accidental by Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, today following an inquiry. He said no inquest will be held.

Mrs. Smillie was overcome by smoke when furnishing in her apartment caught fire on the early morning of July 31. She died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Sunday night.

An urgent message is awaiting a Seattle couple said to be traveling in this area. City police received a message today from Mr. Tapert, Seattle, requesting they try to locate Mr. and Mrs. Wade Cardwell, in Washington-licensed auto GA1223, to telephone him at Melrose 7382, Seattle, regarding an urgent family matter.

Duncan MacBride, Liberal candidate in Esquimalt-Saanich, was advised today the federal government is going ahead with rebuilding of the wharf and landing float at Shawnigan Lake.

Through a misprint it was stated in the Times last week that building inspector J. W. Osterink was investigating the violation of building regulations in the 600 block Douglas Street. It was not the 600 block, Mr. Osterink explains, but another location on Douglas Street that is being probed.

James Earle McNaughton, Victoria, was committed for trial by Magistrate H. C. Hall at the conclusion of three preliminary hearings this morning in city police court on charges of breaking and entering and committing theft.

He is alleged to have stolen articles of over the value of $25 from Janet Wilson, Luxor Apartments; Constable Eric Rossier, Revercombe Apartments, and Joy Smith, Strathmore Apartments.

Water shot up 40 feet in the air when a 12-inch water main on Quadra, near Dieppe Street, blew its cap off this morning. The water flooded a nearby field before a Saanich repair crew was able to control the flow.

Violating a driver's restriction cost Norman A. Chute, 1331 May, $25 in city police court today.

Young Man Admits Attacking Girl On City Street

City police court today heard how a youthful employee of a local department store fought off a young man who assaulted her at 12:30 a.m. Saturday on a downtown street.

Story was told in the case of Aubrey Nobbs who pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault. J. Ronald Grant appeared as defense counsel.

Constable Roy Foster told Magistrate H. C. Hall that Nobbs stopped his truck on Quadra Street and grabbed the girl.

"He attempted to drag her down an alleyway between two stores," the officer said. "She managed to hook her foot against one of the buildings to prevent being dragged into the alley."

"She screamed and he (Nobbs) put his hand over her mouth, but she struggled and finally managed to get free. Two young men at View and Vancouver helped her get home," Const. Foster said.

At this point Magistrate H. C. Hall called a halt to proceedings. "I would like to hear the story from the lips of the complainant," he said.

Case was remanded to Wednesday.

Forbidden Plateau Guide Has Many Adventures

Miss Betty Cox, who is guiding at Forbidden Plateau this year, is up on Kitty. She is wearing a buckskin jacket made by northern Indians who could not speak English. Her measurements were taken with a piece of string and the style copied from a sketch. The raw moosehide was obtained from a hunter helping to pack a moose on horseback, nine miles through bush off the Alaska Highway. It is Betty's favorite coat.

Although still young, Betty Cox has an adventurous and interesting career. As a hunter since she was 12 years old, a lover of outdoor work and an expert fisherwoman.

While in high school she worked as a whistle punk in the logging camp where she grew up. She also found time to look after a duck farm. After graduation she was schoolteacher at Fort St. John for two years and it was in that time that she shot a 500-pound bear that was killing sheep at the Fort.

She owned her own barn, and pasture in the far north, had three dogs, two cats, three horses and a goat. One of the dogs, part husky, part Alsatian, named Yukon, she still has with her.

Recently Betty has been teaching at the Nitinat Indian School.

Lovely Midsummer Wedding Unites Popular Pair in Recent Ceremony

Midsummer nuptials took place at St. John's Anglican Church, Saturday evening, when Marjory Blythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLean Blythe, Walter Avenue, became the bride of W. Alan Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Blair, 1364 Hillside Avenue. The bride chose shades of pale yellow, golden bronze and robin's egg blue for floral arrangements and attendants' gowns. Gladioli decorated the altar and guest pews were marked with colonial bouquets of sweet peas. Canon George Biddle officiated.

As the organ pealed the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the lovely bride entered the church on the arm of her father, wearing an exquisite hand-modeled gown of white slipper satin and nylon tulle, fashioned with a knee-length overdress of white chantilly lace. The full crinoline skirt billowed out from a fitted bodice, the deep neckline outlined with the lace scallops, and lily-point sleeves. A Juliet cap of satin and tulle framed with lily of the valley held her illusion chapel veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of golden tulle roses and gold and peach carnations, with white satin streamers caught in lovers knots and dotted with the golden buds.

Five pretty attendants preceded the bride to the altar. Mrs. Charles R. Devine of Vancouver, matron of honor, wore a ballerina-length gown of bronze taffeta shantung, with a colonial net overskirt tied at the waist with a velvet ribbon. Around her neck she wore a matching velvet choker with a single rose, and carried a crescent bouquet of pale yellow Ester Reed daisies and fern, with a bandeau of the same flowers in her hair.

Mrs. Michael Schneider and Mrs. S. Rundell were gowned alike in ballerina-length frocks of pale yellow taffeta with nylon net overskirts similar to the matron of honor. They carried crescent bouquets of golden bronze gladioli, and wore velvet chokers with a single rosebud, and matching flower head-dresses.

Miss Ronnie Blythe of Vancouver, cousin of the bride, made a winsome junior bridesmaid in her robin's egg blue floor-length taffeta dress and carrying a bouquet of pink and blue carnations.

The little flower girl was Marsha Mann, wearing a long frock of pale yellow nylon organdy with a matching floral chapeau, and carrying a colonial basket of matching mixed summer blooms.

Donald Hendry served as the best man, and Michael Blythe, brother of the bride, and Archie MacMillan escorted the guests to their seats. During the signing of the register Miss Grace Adams sang "Through the Years." For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Blythe chose a powder-blue gown of taffeta and embroidered nylon, with white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses and carnations. Mrs. Blair selected a ballerina length frock of silver grey cobweb lace and taffeta, powder-blue accessories, and a corsage of golden blush roses.

The reception was held at the Business and Professional Women's Club, where the young couple received the two hundred guests with their parents, and later cut the four-tier wedding cake with an antique sword.

The toast to the bride was proposed by E. A. Cleveland, the toast to the bridesmaids by D. Hendry.

When the newlyweds left on their wedding trip to Washington and Oregon, the bride donned a teal blue silk dress, pale yellow boucle coat, navy straw model hat, and navy accessories, and wore a corsage of gardenias and golden rosebuds. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Blair will reside in their newly completed home at 3160 Mars.

Sheila Sinnamon Honored

Mrs. William F. Osselton, 1765 Newton Street, entertained at a shower Saturday evening to honor her sister, Miss Sheila Sinnamon, who is to be married this month. A corsage of red carnations was presented to the bride-elect, pink carnations to her mother, Mrs. R. G. Sinnamon, and yellow carnations to her grandmother, Mrs. L. Hannant. Guests included Mrs. W. Montgomery, Mrs. O. Strand, and Misses Ruth Jeffrey, Greta Quist, Rosemary Osselton, Maida Dunkley, Vera Johnston and Jeanne Sinnamon.

Honor Mr. and Mrs. Purves

Members of the financial subdivision, B.C. Electric Railway Company, gathered recently at the Langley Street office to honor Mr. R. W. Purves prior to his departure for Vancouver where he will join the mainland staff. On behalf of those present, Miss Irene Fairbairn presented Mr. Purves with a set of binoculars. Mrs. Purves was presented with a beautiful arrangement of flowers in a container by Miss Margaret Bevis.

geton somewhere in the nation to give him some excuse for this strong bidding.

West assumed the singleton had to be in clubs, so Bill Root let West hold the trick with the king of clubs. This made it possible for declarer to develop the club suit without giving the lead to East. South's king of hearts was thus safe from attack.

If West led hearts, South would win a trick with the king of hearts. If West failed to lead hearts, declarer could eventually discard a heart on dummy's fifth club. Either way, the contract was safe.

AUTOMOTIVE REPORTS:

Rise of the V-8 in popularity has been consistent. A weak 18% in the '40-'48 period, it was up to 23% in 1949, to 33.5% in 1952 and is today holding down a firm 38%. Observers at the production end of the industry have labeled the In-Line Six virtually a "DEAD DUCK" in the not far distant future.

No Labor For Troops

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House says there is no intention whatever of using combat units as labor troops in Korea.

The White House statement Monday followed published reports that President Eisenhower had approved a plan to rebuild war-wrecked South Korea into a show window of the free world by using American troops in the work of rehabilitation.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.) of the Senate armed services committee told the Senate it would be "outrageous" to put combat soldiers to work in Korea manning "shovels and wheelbarrows."

Tory Claims Story of Corruption Suppressed for Fear of Exposure

Graft, corruption, stealing and maladministration in government was charged by James George at a house meeting Monday night.

The Curry report showed this, he thought, but the ponderous Liberal machine moved to crush any further investigation.

"Again in fear of exposure the iron curtain was clamped down so that the people of Canada could not see the true state of affairs," he claimed.

He referred to an advertisement in the local press which said "Corruption in our Canadian government is unknown."

He claimed that when a newspaper reporter revealed evidence that showed a Liberal member of Parliament from Saskatchewan had "exchanged" more than $70,000 worth of cheques with a man who had received large government contracts the government refused an investigation.

The Progressive Conservative candidate rapped the government for its complete control by a handful of cabinet ministers. He thought the recent appointment of a civil servant to the position of secretary of state illustrated his point.

Hold-Out Firms Accept IWA Terms

Six firms which earlier rejected conciliation board terms for settling their wage dispute with coast woodworkers fell into line with 114 other companies Monday and agreed to implement the board's suggestions.

Ed. Haw, spokesman for the IWA Victoria local, said one of seven hold-out companies in this area had capitulated and that there were indications most of the six remaining would accept the terms as well.

"I'm quite confident they'll all line up," he said.

Joe Morris, IWA district president, in Vancouver, issued instructions earlier that locals throughout the province should make immediate applications for strike votes in plants which had not agreed to implement the conciliation board recommendations.

Because of the hope that the hold-out firms here will announce their acceptance at any moment, the Victoria local has made no move for a strike vote.

Excess Saliva May Be Disease Or Due to Emotional Upset

A person who has excessive secretion of the saliva must be quite uncomfortable.

Q.—Is there any cause for great excess of saliva in the mouth? It seems to be a family characteristic, but I am really quite uncomfortable and embarrassed at times.—Mrs. S. J.

A.—This peculiar condition of excessive saliva secretion is known as ptyalism. Sometimes it is associated with an easily identifiable inflammatory condition of the mouth or nearby regions which can be corrected; in some instances it is associated with general diseases, some of which can be successfully treated and some not. In many cases, however, no definite cause can be found, though it is said often to accompany nervousness, or perhaps emotional instability. When a cause can be discovered, of course, this should be treated as indicated, but when not, little can be done except, perhaps, to use drugs of the belladonna family which, however, must be given with care and cannot be used for an indefinite period of time.

Yorks and Lancs To Greet Friends From California

Memories of Yorkshire and Lancashire will be recalled when members of the Los Angeles and Oakland, Calif., clubs meet next week in Victoria for their annual celebrations.

The annual get-together is sponsored by the Victoria Lancashire and Yorkshire Society under the chairmanship of Reginald Clarke. Over 100 visitors from California are expected to attend the event.

The program to start Tuesday at the Legion Auditorium includes a concert featuring the old-time songs of Lancashire and Yorkshire. This will be followed with a dance.

Wednesday, the B.C. Electric Co. is sponsoring a concert at Beacon Hill Park at 7:30 for the two societies. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Victoria club will entertain the visitors with house parties, and tours in and around Victoria.

The visitors will leave for Vancouver on Sunday.

'New Canadians' To Entertain at Gladiolus Show

One of the feature attractions at the Victoria Gladiolus Festival, which will be held at the Victoria Curling Club Thursday, will be a concert of Austrian songs and music staged by a group of New Canadians.

The three-day festival will also feature folk dancing nightly between 8 and 9 by the Sons of Norway, The Let's Dance Club, Catherine Costain's School of Dancing and the Victoria Ballroom Group.

Visitors to the show will also be able to see some of the most beautiful gladiolus grown on the continent. There will be over 5,000 blooms, as well as the latest new types.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

The Queen of Flowers! When reading works which deal with the history and culture of one specific plant or flower, the phrase is almost sure to occur.

The peony enthusiast regards his specialty as the Queen of Flowers. Just as assuredly does the breeder of Iris label his treasures. No less an opinion of his pet interest has the specialist growing the rose, carnation, delphinium or the lily.

This week in Victoria, however, we have a new Queen of Flowers—the Gladiolus. Such an array of color will not have been seen before, since this is one flower which can run the gamut of the spectroscopic. Cut for the show table as it is without foliage, the impact of color can be terrific. Arranged with a fine perception of color values, a gladiolus festival may well be a feast not easily forgotten.

The Victoria Gladiolus Society is really out to show the gardeners what they are missing if they don't grow these colorful flowers. In co-operation with the Cosmopolitan Club, the festival will be staged in the Curling Rink this week, from Thursday to Saturday, inclusive.

Blooms will be exhibited from other parts of the country, for this is a plant which is not exclusively of the coast. It grows equally well across Canada, which means that local growers are really on their toes to produce the fine quality which will be seen.

While size of bloom and length of stem has been stressed in the past to a degree, the essential element of quality must always be present in a good gladiolus. Conversely, breeders have, of recent years, turned their attention to the creation of miniatures. These exquisite additions will attract an equal amount of interest from the public as the giants of the race. With artistic flower arrangements making their appearance in almost every home, these dainty members of a popular family are finding a warm welcome.

At the festival, gardeners will be able to learn the culture, the best varieties for special purposes, and other general information from local growers who will be quite ready to talk of their Queen of Flowers.

Food, Clothing, Rents Send Cost-of-Living Index Rising

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose half a point in June to 115.4 under the impact of a seasonal increase in food costs and higher prices for clothing, rents and other commodities.

The bureau of statistics reported today that the rise in the prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, largely reflected seasonal increases in the price of eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Price increases for these goods drove the food sub-index up to 112.8 from 111.4.

The old cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose 1.2 points to 186 from 184.8 in May.

Also contributing to the increase in the consumer price index were higher prices for cured pork products, fractionally higher prices for flour and bread and increases in the price of coal, gas and household help.

USE PARK FOR TESTS
LONDON (UP) — Police believe safecrackers may be testing their explosives in Hampstead Heath in the centre of London before going out on a job.

Liberal Sees Danger in Tory Economy

Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate Duncan MacBride Monday night challenged the Progressive Conservatives to reveal how they can reduce taxation $500,000,000 as they claim they can.

The candidate, addressing a Port Renfrew meeting, said the Tories so far have only said "waste and extravagance" can be eliminated from administration of government affairs.

Mr. MacBride also said the 96,000 veterans of the Second World War and their 17,000 dependents should study the Conservative proposals closely.

He claimed these persons, who are largely dependent on pensions granted by the Liberals, would suffer reduced living standards under the Tory plan.

SPIDER SAVES LIFE

DAYTON, O. (UP) — Leonard Skyretteberg, 17, believes he owes his life to a spider that bit him in the middle of night.

The youth was spending the night in an outlying log cabin on his parents' ranch here when he was bitten by a spider. He decided to move back to the ranch house.

Later in the night lightning struck the cabin and it burned to the ground.

Stop the Steamroller

The Liberal Government at Ottawa uses its huge, servile majority to prevent investigation of scandals like the Curle "horses on the payroll" Report.

A Liberal vote this election means more "steam-roller" tactics, more arrogance, over-taxation and waste of your tax money.

Only Conservatives can give you a change. A vote for any other candidate will divide the opposition and return the Liberal Party to power.

The issue is YOUR MONEY!

"Plenty of safe, whole milk for the cottage this year!"

"Yes, Al. No taking chances with our milk supply like last year."

"This Borden's Klim is wonderful for the cottage. Pasteurized whole milk in powder form."

"Yes, Klim certainly beats those powdered skim milks. Good to drink and best for cooking too."

"And how! Klim's richer and better 'cause it's got the cream right in it."

"Most important, though, it's safe 'cause it's pasteurized and sealed in air-tight cans."

"And Borden's Klim is so easy to mix—just add to water and beat, or place in a sealer and shake. Klim stays fresh in the can weeks after it's opened, too."

"Yes, in every way, Borden's Klim settles the cottage's milk supply problem."

Get Borden's Klim at your grocer's in 1, 2½ or 5 lb. tins. 1 lb. makes over three quarts of rich, safe, whole milk.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP)—A Canadian soldier will be among the first 400 Allied war prisoners returning to freedom at 5 o'clock, PDT, tonight in the opening of "Operation Big Switch."

The announcement came today from the Communists shortly after American, British and Danish Red-Cross workers had passed through the bamboo curtain to give comfort to the PWs.

Identity of the Canadian was not disclosed. He is one of 14 soldiers of the Maple Leaf reported held by the Reds.

The Canuck will be among 100 sick and wounded prisoners turned over to Allied medical in this buffer zone village.

Others in the first group include 50 sick and injured South Koreans, 35 Americans, eight Turks, two Filipinos, one Briton, one Australian, one South African and one Belgian.

A total of 12,763 Allied captives and 74,000 Communists will be transferred during Operation Big Switch.

Extra Police Alarmed To Handle Doukhobors

Attorney-General Bonner Tells Railwaymen 'Vigilantes' Not Needed; Arson Charge Laid

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Attorney-General Robert Bonner said today emergency police squads will combat "any mass disturbance" by the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

He was commenting on an announcement by railway men that they would take "vigilante" action to protect themselves against the Doukhobor terrorists.

(A Sons of Freedom Doukhobor Nick Evdokimoff was arrested Monday and charged with arson as a result of the destruction by fire of a Krestova home during a weekend in June.

(Evdokimoff appeared in court today for preliminary hearing. Bail has been fixed at $3,000).

In Nelson to investigate renewed outbreaks of arson and railway bombings in the Kootenay country, Mr. Bonner said: "In the event of any threat to the civil authority, military aid would be made available in a matter of hours.

"There are additional RCMP forces within quick call to handle any possible mass disturbance from the Doukhobor sect."

Anti-Social Elements Put in By Credulous, CCF Leader Charges

The Social Credit movement in British Columbia and Alberta is "an aggregation of anti-social elements assisted by the credulous to put into office a group of unscrupulous opportunists," national CCF leader M. J. Coldwell charged in Victoria Monday night.

Mr. Coldwell, addressing more than 500 Victorians at the Club Sirocco, chose B.C., capital city to launch his most bitter attack on the Socreds.

Social Credit, the CCF chief stated, plans regimentation of the people and the "rise of a North American form of Fascism."

(See other story on page 3) "It's difficult to understand why British Columbians voted for the same kind of philosophy our boys defeated in the Second World War," said Mr. Coldwell.

He recalled national Socred Leader Solon Low saying the time might come when the country will no longer need elections and parliament would be unnecessary.

Years ago, he said, the Alberta Social Credit Board recommended abolition of the secret ballot by making it mandatory for a voter to write his name on the back of the ballot.

"I can't think how so many people in B.C. were so ill-informed not to know these facts," the Socialist leader said.

Mr. Coldwell said he's studied Social Credit writings for 30 years, and read everything the late Major Douglas, Social Credit founder, has written.

"That's more than the premier of B.C. and most of the Socred MPs in Ottawa, can say," he said, "I agree with every economist who has ever examined the Social Credit theory. There's nothing in it which will benefit the people of any democracy."

He said "one of the biggest pieces of hypocrisy in the country is the blasphemous writings trotted up and down the country to fool the credulous."

"I respect a Liberal because he has a philosophy and he believes in the democratic institutions. I respect a Conservative too," said Mr. Coldwell. "But Social Credit I don't respect because either in ignorance or some other motive it will ultimately destroy our democracy."

The speaker later, during a question period, criticized Victoria Socred MLA Mrs. Lydia Arsens for stating there are some school teachers speaking the Communist lines to children.

He said Social Credit has resulted in a danger of some sort of witch-hunting like Senator Joseph McCarthy created in the United States.

"The woman is obviously irresponsible and should not be in the Legislature," he said.

Mr. Coldwell also attacked Salmon Arm MLA-elect J. A. Reid's "ignorant and baseless charges" against the school system.

"I don't know how the people could re-elect that man," he continued. "His charges are just another indication of the Fascist psychology of Social Credit."

Mr. Coldwell left for Vancouver on the midnight boat. He was entertained by the Victoria-Oak Bay CCF Association at a dinner before the public meeting.

6,000 Berlin Reds Storm Food Stations

West Police Drive Hungry Hordes Back

BERLIN (CP)—West Berlin police, wielding clubs and water hoses, today smashed three attacks by more than 6,000 East Berlin Communists trying to storm American free-food stations.

Dozens of heads were cracked in "swirling street battles" as reinforced squads drove the Red toughs back across the border after they had thrust into the American and French sectors to attack the relief program.

About 150 Communists were arrested.

The Communists sent their storm troopers to attack the food stations after police threats and confiscations had failed to keep tens of thousands of East Berlin hungry from swarming across the border to receive the gifts.

West Berlin police said they expected more attacks and reinforced their guards around all the stations near the Soviet sector border.

Mobile water guns were moved up to strategic sectors to brace the border defenses.

The three battles lasted about half an hour until police reinforcements routed the invaders.

Two thrusts were made into the neighboring American sector boroughs of Kreuzberg and Neukölln, and here the battling was fiercest.

"We gave them a good beating," said a West Berlin policeman.

Wilcox Delays Action to Unseat Martin

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stanley Wilcox, who has been at odds with the Social Credit party organization in Burrard, announced today that he will postpone legal action to upset the election of a B.C. cabinet minister in order to join his party's federal campaign.

Last week Mr. Wilcox said he would challenge the election in Burrard, of Health Minister Eric Martin on grounds a Burrard party official kept a commission from funds collected contrary to provisions of the Election Act.

Mr. Wilcox said there were no irregularities.

Today Mr. Wilcox said he was postponing the legal action because "I don't want any controversy to interfere with my friend Peer Paynter." He would speak "in the near future" on behalf of Mr. Paynter, Social Credit federal candidate for Vancouver Burrard.

article entitled "Social Credit Means Dictatorship."

Effects of the oil boom on Alberta's economy have been exaggerated, he said. Oil has got credit for more things than oil ever got credit for anywhere. Social Credit was elected in Alberta in 1935 and oil was not found until 1947. In the interim, Alberta was the only province operating on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, he said.

Mr. Manning admitted the Social Credit party is in no position to form a federal government at this time. But he said it may be that neither "old line" party will have a clear majority. In that case, opposition parties would have a controlling voice in Parliament.

Appeal Adjourned

VANCOUVER (CP)—An appeal on behalf of Harry and Wallace Glover on charges of distributing milk without a license from the B.C. Milk Board has been adjourned until September by the Supreme Court.

The Glovers were convicted in Ladysmith, in July. Magistrate W. H. Bryant fined each $100.

5 OF 8 NEW POLIO CASES HERE AT BELMONT PARK

Eight new cases of polio—five of them in the Belmont naval housing subdivision, were reported today in the Greater Victoria area.

All are in isolation at Royal Jubilee Hospital. A man, 22, and a girl, three, are Victoria residents. A 20-year-old Saanich man is also reported.

A married woman of 28, a married man of 31, an 11-month-old baby girl, and two girls, six and seven years, are reported from Belmont subdivision.

Malenkov Grip Still Firm

Noted Writer Says Red Leader Man of Strong Will and Action

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddy Gilmore, for 11 years Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow, said today there are indications Russia intends to admit tourists within her border again, probably next summer.

Gilmore returned to the United States with his Russian-born wife, and their two children. He had been trying for years to obtain Soviet permission for his family to leave.

Gilmore made these observations to newspaper men who met him aboard the liner Ile de France.

Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov "has always given me the impression of a man who is very much in charge of the situation."

While there have been many changes in the Soviet Union since the death of Stalin, "I don't think there is going to be any great revolution."

Among possible changes that might take place in Soviet policy is a change in attitude toward foreigners.

"I received several indications that they are going to start letting tourists in again and that it probably will begin next summer," Gilmore said.

Regarding the recent purge of Lavrentia Beria, who was minister of internal security and boss of the secret police, Gilmore commented: "Malenkov either felt desperate or strong enough to do it. What part the army played in it, I have not been able to figure out, but, considering the strength of the security police, how he did it is still amazing to me."

Gilmore said that "eliminating Beria—if he is eliminated—took some doing and anyone who can pull that off is a very powerful fellow."

Gilmore said Malenkov "takes no cues from others."

"He neither looks to the left nor the right," said Gilmore. "He is one of the best public speakers in the Soviet Union and he goes ahead in a strong, firm voice. He speaks without notes."

"Here is a man who is definitely in charge, although, of course, I could be completely wrong."

Dulles Arrives In Korea for Talk With Syngman Rhee

SEOUL (AP)—State Secretary Dulles of the United States arrived here tonight to confer with President Syngman Rhee on post-armistice American-Korean relations.

Dulles' plane, carrying Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and several of the secretary's top aides, landed hours late after a flight across the stormy North Pacific.

By flying to Korea, Dulles fulfilled a pledge he made prior to the signing of the Korean truce, that a high-ranking American diplomat would visit the fiery South Korean president. Rhee agreed not to obstruct an armistice.

Soviet 'Atomic City' Reported in Gobi

HONG KONG (UP)—Nationalist Chinese language papers reported today that an atomic city has been built by the Soviets near the Gobi Desert in China's far western Sinkiang province.

Sinkiang (Chinese Turkestan) is twice the size of Texas but has a population of only four millions. Its mineral resources are rated second only to Manchuria and the report said, it is claimed to have deposits of uranium as well as tin, tungsten and petroleum.

Arnott Hopes for Relief Without Boosting Fare

An increase in B.C.E. Co. bus fares for Greater Victoria or curtailment of service was seen today following receipt of a letter at City Hall from E. W. Arnott, vice-president in charge of Vancouver Island operations of the company.

He asked to meet with Mayor Harrison and aldermen to discuss mileage reductions which the company wishes to effect "as a partial offset against the heavy operating loss we are continuing to experience in our urban transportation system."

Queried later on the possibility of a fare increase if the city, Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay do not agree to mileage reductions, Mr. Arnott said: "We are hoping for some relief without increasing fares."

We are suggesting a reduction in mileage as one means of amelioration. If the company's suggestions are not acceptable, he said other "possibilities" would have "to be scouted." He did not care to elaborate on grounds the company has not met with municipal councils or transportation committees.

Queried on the extent of suggested reductions, Mr. Arnott said "it must affect some services."

Mayor Will Oppose Any Boost

Mayor Harrison said he would be "absolutely opposed" to any fare increase.

He said, however, he would be quite willing to meet and discuss mileage reductions, if a "sensible solution" could be found. He declared himself "open-minded" on that point and ready to hear the facts.

"If, however, the request is a roundabout effort to raise rates, I am absolutely opposed," the mayor stated. "I will look into the charter rights of the BCE as to why they should be retained if this thing is carried too far."

"If it doesn't pay why don't they throw in the charter?" Mayor Harrison said it was up to the City Council to protect the public from any transit fare increase.

"The BCE have been given many rights in Victoria," he said. "The present rates are all the people should be called upon to stand. The people are not going to be squeezed any more."

The mayor believes the people of Victoria are getting on a sound foundation financially and sees "no reason to take advantage of it."

"Let us get out of the hole," Mayor Harrison said he would not favor a too serious curtailment of bus routes but would be willing to study adjustments, if a "sensible and businesslike remedy in the public interest is put forward."

No Action for Several Weeks

He said the next meeting of council would not likely be called before the end of August or first of September "when all the aldermen will be back in Victoria."

Mr. Arnott in his letter stated that since the whole area will be affected by planned mileage reductions, the city might prefer to have the matter initially discussed by the Greater Victoria transportation committee. The mayor also felt the matter should go to the committee first.

A check with Morran Waller, secretary of committees at City Hall, however, revealed that such a committee has not been set up this year.

Ald. William Pinfold is chairman of the city's own transportation committee with Ald. Arthur Dowell and Ald. Don Smith.

The Public Utilities Commission stated it has received no word of the requested reductions from the BCE yet.

Presumably the company will try to arrive at an agreement with the municipalities before presenting an application for reduction in mileage or an alternative solution.

The last bus fare increase in Greater Victoria went into effect April 6, 1952.

In Zone 1, adult cash fare remained at 10 cents but tickets which sold at three for 25 were abolished. The weekly pass went from $1.75 to $2. Children's cash fare was increased from 4 to 5 cents and children's tickets from eight for 25 to six for 25.

The BCE Co were granted a transit increase Oct. 23, 1949, when tickets which had been four for 30 cents sold at three for 25. Cash fare remained at 10 cents.

The weekly pass went from $1.35 to $1.75. Children's tickets remained at 4 cents each or eight for 25.

QUEEN MOTHER 53 TODAY

LONDON (UP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth celebrated her 53rd birthday today in the happy circle of her daughters and grandchildren.

Young Prince Charles and his sister, Princess Anne, were driven up the Mall to Clarence House to wish their grandmother happy birthday. They presented her with bouquets of flowers.

Queen Elizabeth, their mother, had gone, an hour earlier to be one of the first to greet her mother.

Later, the Queen joined her mother and sister, Princess Margaret, at a family luncheon. Members of the Royal Family leave tonight for their annual holiday at Balmoral Castle on Scotland's River Dee.

The Duke of Edinburgh, yachting this week at Cowes, will join his family Saturday.

The Duke had mixed luck today when he attempted to steer one of his yachts to victory.

The Duke decided to steer Bluebottle, which he owns jointly with Queen Elizabeth, but the event had been in progress only 10 minutes when the Dragon class yacht was involved in a minor collision with a motorboat and returned to harbor with the mainsail half lowered.

Quickly disembarking, the Duke boarded his second yacht, Cowslip, and steered her to the line for the start of the flying fifteen event, but finished second.

ISLAND DAIRYMEN PROTEST DECONTROL

A Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association delegation is in Vancouver today protesting the provincial government's plan to decontrol milk prices above the producer level.

The group, headed by secretary Henry Robinson, is appearing before a B.C. Milk Board public hearing in the mainland city.

The Island dairymen contend decontrol will eventually mean the government will not be able to maintain what controls are remaining.

Others attending from the Island are Brian Hoole and William Taylor of Saanich.

Other opposition is expected to come from small-shop proprietors. One such businessman said he only makes a cent a bottle on milk, and it's no more than courtesy to customers that milk is handled at all.

If the big stores cut prices under the new plan, he said, small stores will lose money by trying to match the lower prices.

"If we don't handle milk, we will get complaints," he said. "Anyway you look at it, decontrol is no good for the small-store owner."

Lower Price Won't Help, Board Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Denial of the popular belief that lower milk prices would increase consumption was made today by Charles Wall, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Wall presented a brief on behalf of the 20,000 members of his organization at the opening session today of a B.C. Milk Board hearing to discuss price decontrol and other related factors involved.

E. C. Carr, board chairman, said approximately 20 briefs will be presented.

Wall said that over a long period there is no verification for the belief that increased prices cut milk consumption, or that decreased prices increase consumption.

"There has been such a confusion of statements," said Wall, "that we have lost confidence in any plan which envisages a reduction in the present powers of the milk board."

MILK HEARING

Lower Price Won't Help, Board Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—Denial of the popular belief that lower milk prices would increase consumption was made today by Charles Wall, secretary-manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture.

Wall presented a brief on behalf of the 20,000 members of his organization at the opening session today of a B.C. Milk Board hearing to discuss price decontrol and other related factors involved.

E. C. Carr, board chairman, said approximately 20 briefs will be presented.

Wall said that over a long period there is no verification for the belief that increased prices cut milk consumption, or that decreased prices increase consumption.

"There has been such a confusion of statements," said Wall, "that we have lost confidence in any plan which envisages a reduction in the present powers of the milk board."

A delegation of Vancouver Island dairymen, headed by Henry Robinson is in Vancouver to protest the decontrol move.

Wilcox Delays Action to Unseat Martin

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stanley Wilcox, who has been at odds with the Social Credit party organization in Burrard, announced today that he will postpone legal action to upset the election of a B.C. cabinet minister in order to join his party's federal campaign.

Last week Mr. Wilcox said he would challenge the election in Burrard, of Health Minister Eric Martin on grounds a Burrard party official kept a commission from funds collected contrary to provisions of the Election Act. Mr. Martin said there were no irregularities.

A bus franchise that's losin' money's somethin' like a rotten rope when y're drowin'—it may not be much good but y're durned if y're goin' t' let go of it.

A prisoner exchange is a great bargain—what y' git is so much more valuable t' y' than what y're givin' away.

Never seems t' hev occurred t' these political fellers who make so many promises about what they'll do with my money, that I might jus' like t' go along quietly an' spend it m' self.
